FEDERAL AGENTS STOLE BOOZE, SAYS GRAND JURY

NAME 4 IN LAWRENCE RUM PLOT

Indictments Will Be Sought Tomorrow in $1,000,000 Conspiracy

Indictments charging conspiracy against four alleged members of the so-called Million Dollar Rum Ring of Lawrence will be sought by Prohibition officers before the Federal Grand Jury in Boston tomorrow.

Government agents allege the four are members of a powerful booze combination which has been supplying 300 saloons, hotels, roadhouses, clubs and "speak-easies" in, and about the city of Lawrence with alcohol re-distilled from the denaturing ethyl alcohol hitherto pronounced as dangerous poison impossible of redistillation.

Disclosure of the ramifications of the booze traffic in Lawrence followed a sensational raid on the $5,000 concrete building on Johnson street, North Andover, a mile from the heart of Lawrence.

Federal agents declare that the North Andover "still" is the largest ever operated in New England.

WEALTHY BUSINESS.

A force of six prohibition agents from Boston headquarters and two Anti-Saloon sleuths have unearthed, they say, additional evidence against prominent Lawrence rum-runners, bookkeepers and bootleggers upon which other indictments will be asked.

And the men higher up, the wealthy backers of the rum combination will be brought into Federal and State courts to plead to indictments of present plans of their prohibition and anti-saloon forces mature.

One man in particular—an official of a big Lawrence banking institution, is alleged to have provided thousands of dollars to finance the better workers of the rum ring.

Charges against at least one member of the Lawrence police department—an inspector—may also be

DOPED, BEATEN AND LEFT TO FREEZE

Salem, Nov. 13.—Police today searched for two unknown men who doped and assaulted John Sienkiewicz, seventeen years old, of No. 54 Mason street.

The boy was found almost frozen to death across the street from his home before dawn today.

He had been reported as missing since 6 o'clock Monday morning.

Found by Patrolman Thomas McNiff he was helped to bed and following first aid treatment said he had met two men as he was homeward bound early in the evening in the old Gofford mill yards near the railroad.

"One of them," he said, "asked me for a match. I gave it to him. He

LLOYD GEORGE AND ASQUITH COMBINE

London, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The British Parliament will be dissolved Friday and a general election held Thursday Dec. 6.

The Asquith and Lloyd George factions of the Liberal party sank their differences today and reunited to present a solid front against the Conservative Protectionists, as well as against the Labor party, in the coming election.

The reconciliation was effected at a meeting of former Premiers Asquith and Lloyd George, Sir Alfred Mond and Sir John Simon. Arrangements were made for a united campaign.

While such a move was not unexpected by many political observers there yet had been a great element of doubt as to whether the two bitter political antagonists, Asquith

WARD BAKERY MAN HELD UP, N. Y. BANDITS GET $18,000

New York, Nov. 13.—Police headquarters today sent out a general alarm for bandits who held up a cashier of the Ward Baking Company and robbed him of $18,000.

Morgan Morrison, the cashier, flanked by two clerks, carried the money in a leather bag. As they entered the vestibule of the company's Brooklyn office, three men, armed, forced them to turn their faces to the wall. Threatened with death Morrison dropped the bag. Snatching it the men pocketed their pistols, jumped into an automobile and sped away.

COOLIDGE TO READ MESSAGE TO CONGRESS IN PERSON

Washington, Nov. 13.—President Coolidge probably will deliver in person his message to Congress when it convenes next month.

He considers it wise to continue the customs revived by President Wilson and continued by President Harding, although he is inclined to be guided largely by the desires of Congress. Should the leaders indicate that they desire him to appear in person, Mr. Coolidge would be glad to do so, but if the opposite is indicated he will return to the old custom of sending messages by messengers.

Isadora Duncan's stuff is to be a compulsory course for Smith College sophomores. Not only that, but Isadora's dancers are coming here Wednesday evening to show them just how it is done. The upper classes are jealous, but try not to show it, while the freshies are twittering like sparrows in a tree. The sophs are trying not to look self-conscious, but are not getting far with it.

PREACHER DODGING ALIMONY

'Society Pastor' Bridges Hides in Bay State During Hearing on Divorce Suit

Newport, Nov. 13.—The Rev. Thomas Reed Bridges, society preacher with a millionaire parish in Mobile, Ala., is in hiding in a nearby Massachusetts city lest he have to pay alimony in Rhode Island.

His beautiful wife, Adelina Tower Bridges, is suing the famous pastor for divorce, charging cruelty. Her action followed a suit entered by the preacher against her in the far away south. She beat the pastor into court.

Today, at a hearing in Superior Court, an attorney for the preacher attempted to have Mrs. Bridges' suit dismissed on the grounds of lack of jurisdiction of Rhode Island courts, it being alleged the woman had not resided in the State long enough to sue.

Mrs. Adelina Bridges.

He failed, Judge Hugh B. Baker denying the motion. Not only did the court deny the motion, but added that Mrs. Bridges was entitled to alimony if she proved her charges.

PAPERS NOW IN HIDING.

Through his attorney, Elmer Tufts of Providence, the divine, who in a decade has changed his communion four times, denied he had been cruel to his wife and branded the charges as having been trumped up to gain Rhode Island jurisdiction in the divorce trial.

"Why doesn't Mr. Bridges enter an appearance here and deny these charges in person?" the attorney asked.

"On account of alimony," was the reply. "My client at this moment is in a nearby Massachusetts town. If it wasn't for the alimony he wishes to avoid he would be here."

Attorney Charles Haslem of Providence, attorney for Mrs. Bridges, sprang to his feet. "There has been no suggestion of alimony made," he said. "It hasn't even been mentioned. Why doesn't Mr. Bridges come into court and try his case? He wants to have a trial, then step out and evade the decision of the court."

Replied Attorney Tufts: "Alimony in Rhode Island cannot be enforced without personal service. My client would be penalized if he came to testify." He then said the preacher branded the cruelty charges as having been "trumped up."

LONG LIST OF CRUELTIES.

Said Attorney Haslam: "I have a big list of cruelties committed by Bridges upon his wife extending over a period of years."

Judge Baker then remarked on Mrs. Bridge's right to alimony if charges were proved to which Attorney Tufts replied:

"Mr. Bridges has only his salary

EX-KAISER CAN'T QUIT HOLLAND

Allies Threaten Ex-Emperor With War Crimes; Berlin Issues No Passports

Berlin, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—It is officially denied here that former Emperor William has been authorized to return to Germany.

London, Nov. 13.—British government officials doubted the Brussels newspaper advices to the effect that twelve passports have been handed ex-Emperor William authorizing him to travel to Berlin.

They are of the opinion that the recentvisit of Dr. Kan, of the Dutch Ministry of the Interior, to Doorn, was for the purpose of cautioning the former war lord that the Allies would not view his departure from Holland with the same equanimity as that of his son.

In view of the fact that the ex-Kaiser is specifically mentioned in the treaty of Versailles as the chief recent visit of Dr. Kan, of the Dutch government already has given the allies an undertaking that he would not be allowed to return to Germany, the British diplomats are confident that Holland will not incur the displeasure of the allies by allowing the ex-Emperor to slip through her hands.

British government officials reiterated this afternoon that they were entirely satisfied with the adequacy of the assurances given by Holland that ex-Emperor William would not be allowed to leave Dutch custody.

No new representations, therefore, have been made to Holland.

France Would Demand Trial for War Crime

Paris, Nov. 13. (I.N.S.)—Indignation and surprise were expressed in official circles today over the report from Brussels that Berlin has granted passports to the former Kaiser to return to Germany.

If Wilhelm is allowed to return to German soil, France may seek a united allied demand for surrender of the ex-Kaiser for trial.

French officials pointed out that under Article 227 of the Versailles treaty, Wilhelm may be placed on trial before an international tribunal.

This article says:

The allied and associated powers publicly arraign William II. of Hohenzollern, formerly German Emperor, for a supreme offence against international morality and the sanctity of treaties. A special tribunal will be constituted to try the accused, thereby assuring him the guarantees essential to the right of defence. It will be composed of five judges, one appointed by each of the following powers, namely, the United States of America, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan. In its decision the tribunal will be guided by the highest motives of international policy with a view to vindicating the solemn obligations of international undertakings and

WIFE, IN FOLLIES, TRIES TO END LIFE

MRS. MINNIE HEALY.
Dorchester girl, formerly one of Flo Ziegfeld's Follies beauties.

Three dollars and a pair of undersize shoes.

They have almost broken up the once happy home of Mrs. Minnie Healy, former Follies beauty.

They stirred up a quarrel which resulted in the young woman, who is about to become a mother, being driven from her Dorchester home.

They caused the fair Mrs. Healy to attempt suicide by gas.

And now they stand in the way of a reconciliation between husband and wife.

ONCE IN FOLLIES.

Mrs. Healy in her Follies days was Hazel Dorne. She is twenty-seven years old. She was married a year ago to John F. Healy of No. 61 Ceylon street, Dorchester. Healy was a widower with a boy, then three and a half years old.

Mrs. Healy bought the shoes at a bargain sale. She paid $5 for them. When she got them home she found they were undersized. Mrs. Healy found a ready purchasor for the shoes in a neighbor. She "sacrificed" them for $2, losing $3 on the transaction.

The former Follies girl told hospital attendants and reporters that her husband was furious when he found she had sold the shoes for $2. They quarrelled.

Mrs. Healy tells the story thus:

"We argued about the shoes until one o'clock in the morning. I told him I would leave. Then he ordered me out. I am soon to become a mother and my health is not the best. I became dazed when I got to the street. I wandered around Dorchester for more than an hour. Finally, I hailed a taxi and was taken to the home of my sister on East Canton street, South End. I got to my sister's home at three o'clock in the morning

"At noon the next day I made up my mind to go back. 'I'll pocket my pride,' I said. The house was empty. My husband was gone. His

EXPECT "GAS" TO GO DOWN TO 16

A further decrease of one cent a gallon, bringing the retail price of 'gas' to autolet to 16 cents, is the expectation of proprietors of gas filling stations. Their belief is based on the steady fall in crude oil in storage.

Yesterday the price went down to 17 cents.

New York, Nov. 13.—Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has announced a cut of one cent a gallon in the price of export gasoline in bulk, making the new price 10.50 cents.

WAREHOUSE THEFTS PROBED

Lax Methods and Overcharges by Storage Company Censured in the Report

Thieving crookedness and gross overcharging has been revealed by the probe of the storing of liquors seized by Federal dry sleuths.

The investigation was conducted by hte Federal Grand Jury.

It reported its findings today to Federal Judge James M. Morton, Jr., as follows:

That former Prohibition Director William J. McCarthy was guilty of laxity in keeping track of liquors seized by federal agents.

That federal agents were dishonest, lax and guilty of stealing liquors from the Massachusetts Storage Warehouse where the spirits were stored.

That the warehouse officials have been unreasonably excessive in storage charges.

That there have been discrepancies in the amounts of liquors seized and stored.

The jury recommended that the government purchase a new warehouse immediately, to be under the control of Federal employes exclusively.

That all liquors now stored in the Massachusetts warehouse either be removed to the new warehouse or destroyed.

POTTER COMMENDED.

That the amount of money to be paid the Massachusetts Storage Company be adjusted by an inventory of the liquors on hand and, in case of overpayment, the company to be held responsible.

That Prohibition Director Elmer C. Potter be commended for "clear-

Bavarian School Closed by Plot

Munich, Bavaria, Nov. 13.—Discovery by the military authorities of a plot among the cadets at the infantry officers' school here to rise and join the movement led by Adolph Hitler against the government caused the academy to be closed today by order of the Minister of War.

Coolidge Wouldn't Protest Monarchy

Washington, Nov. 13.—President Coolidge believes the traditional policy of the American Government would preclude it from joining with the allied Governments in protesting to Germany against the return of Crown Prince Frederick William or his father, the former Emperor, or in measures to prevent the re-establishment of the monarchy.

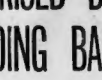
Ludendorff's Own Story of Revolution

By O. D. TOLISCHUS.

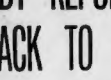
Munich, Nov. 13 (Universal Cable).—General Ludendorff charges Dictator Von Kahr with double dealing and treachery when he turned against Hitler and Ludendorff in the eighteen-hour revolution, of Thursday and Friday.

The motive attributed to the Bavarian dictator for his sudden switch is that Von Kahr did not desire the success of the German National movement, but wanted to turn it in favor of a South German monarchy.

Gen. Ludendorff for the first time



Adolph Hitler



Gen. Ludendorff

gave his side of the episode, which cost nineteen persons their lives, with wounds for many others, when he authorized an interview which was given to me by his confidants, Dr. Rudolf Buttmann and Captain Wilhelm Weiss, two leaders in the Nationalist Movement.

Ludendorff on Saturday sent a long telegram to Karl H. Von Wiegand, well-known correspondent, in answer to the latter's request for a statement of Ludendorff's participation in the Putsch. That dispatch was never delivered, but was presumably suppressed by the Munich Government.

VERY MUCH ALIVE.

General Ludendorff was not wounded, did not commit suicide, and was not killed on orders from Von Kahr, though all of these rumors were circulated. He is very much alive, and not even broken down or "utterly crushed" as variously reported. I saw and talked to him. He looks hale and hearty.

Ignoring the well meant advice that Ludendorff was "completely broken down and could see no one," I went out to his villa on Prince Ludwig Heights, some distance out of Munich. A police dog more friendly than fierce greeted me at the gate.

My name written across a visiting card bearing the name of Von Wiegand, chief Hearst correspondent, was my introduction. I was ushered into the drawing room.

OUT OF MOVEMENT.

General Ludendorff, his face the picture of energy and forcefulness, received me with the words:

"I am out of the national movement for Germany. I have given only my word not to have anything more to do with the present undertaking, but that pledge will be kept. I have no plans for the present."

After talking for some time of the events of the past few days, General Ludendorff turned me over to Buttmann and Weiss, to whom he had introduced me, and authorized them to give for the first time his side of the dramatic, but short-lived revolution. He said that they were familiar with all the details.

GIVE OUT STATEMENT.

Accordingly, these men, talking for General Ludendorff and in his name, gave me the following statement:

"General Ludendorff as well as Von Kahr was taken by surprise. Hitler started the revolution on his own responsibility. Kahr, Hitler and Ludendorff had all along been agreed on the aims, the plans, and the goal, which was to eradicate the Bolshevism creeping over Germany.

"The only matter at issue among them was the time to start the coup. Kahr insisted, in the last conversations the three had, that he alone should determine the moment. Hitler and Ludendorff would not and never did agree to that.

KAHR GIVEN LIE.

"The statement given out by Kahr that his two co-workers for the revolution had given the dictator their word not to start anything, was untrue.

"When on Thursday night, the whole government, including Von Kahr, Premier Von Knilling, and everybody high in authority, were assembled in the Beer Hall, Hitler decided that the moment had come. His immediate purpose was to put them before the 'fait accompli,' since all were agreed on the eventual aim.

"Then followed what was characterized as 'wild west events.' General Ludendorff was brought from his villa in a special automobile, after the dramatic events had taken place. He was not present and had no knowledge of Hitler's intentions.

QUERIED ON STAND.

"General Ludendorff was taken into the conference which was then going on between Hitler, General Von Lossow, and Von Kahr. Ludendorff took no part in that conference.

"General Von Lossow turned to Ludendorff when the latter entered, saying: 'Are you with us?'

"Ludendorff answer, 'Of course, I am.'

"'Then I am, too,' said General Von Lossow.

"Dictator Von Kahr asked for half an hour's time to think it over, and after a short lapse of time he came in and said that he would join, and with a handshake gave his word of honor.

"To the surprise of all, in a speech of acceptance before the crowded hall, Von Kahr brought in the question of monarchy, declaring that he accepted as trustee for the monarchy.

MONARCHY NOT ON PROGRAM.

"Monarchy was no part of the program of Hitler or General Ludendorff. Ludendorff and Hitler went into the hall, while Von Kahr was taken to the palace, his official residence.

"It is assumed by Ludendorff and his friends that after going to the palace Kahr was influenced by Cardinal Faulhaber and Deputy Held, to turn against the others and throw the monarchy over in the interests of a monarchy for South Germany.

DECIDED ON TEST.

"General Von Lossow and Colonel Seisser, commanding the police, went to the barracks where the Reichswehr were garrisoned, and Kahr joined them there. After a talk with the Dictator, General Von Lossow and Colonel Seisser decided to follow Kahr. None of them say a word to General Ludendorff of his treachery.

"In the early morning rumors reached Hitler and Ludendorff, who were still at the Beer Hall, that Kahr had turned against them. They decided to test the sentiment of the Reichswehr and to win over adherents through a demonstration march. Former Police Chief Poehner, who had been named premier, meanwhile went to police headquarters, and was arrested.

REPARATION MOVES END, SAYS COOLIDGE

Washington, Nov. 13.—Although the door still is open for American helpfulness in the reparations problem, President Coolidge regards the latest move in that direction as having come definitely to an end, it was announced today.

BULLETINS

Gels, Prussian Silesia, Nov. 13.—Former Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm arrived at his Klein-en estate today and rejoined his family. Wilhelm waved his cap as the motor car approached his castle. He wept as he sprang out to greet his wife and children. Princess Cecilie embraced her husband, sobbing as she cried: "God be praised."

Munich, Nov. 13 (I.N.S.).—General Ludendorff today voluntarily placed himself in the custody of the Bavarian authorities, on the ground he was not given sufficient freedom. The telephone line into his villa had been cut and he was not permitted to attend the funeral of a servant who had saved his life.

ing house" by instituting better methods.

Extracts of the jury report follow:

Richard Berenson, treasurer of the warehouse, claims he was aware of constant stealing on the part of prohibition agents and other persons having access to the warehouse and that he made complaints to this effect.

PROMISCUOUS STEALING.

"The original receipts were called in and new receipts conforming to dates and numbered to correspond with the old were then issued. This process served effectually to cover up any shortages which might have been created in the amount of liquor originally deposited, but the original receipts were not destroyed and the grand jury having had access to them is fully convinced that up to that time the government liquors had not been given adequate protection by the warehouse company.

"The discrepancies are so numerous and so substantial as to confirm Mr. Berenson's contention that promiscuous stealing had been going on within the warehouse."

handed me a piece of candy. I took it and walked on. I grew dizzy. As I was walking up a hill one of the men reappeared and struck me in the face. I fell and lost consciousness. From the boy's description it is believed two Turks from Peabody attacked him, Peabody has a Turkish settlement, workers in the leather mills. One man was described as forty years old, thick set, of medium height with swarthy features and a black mustache of great length. His companion was younger and smooth faced. Peabody police are co-operating with Salem police in the investigation.

Not long ago a series of similar assaults led families to keep children in their homes after dark.

aired in connection with the investigation of conditions in Lawrence.

The raid on the North Andover "alky" plant occurred on November 6. Agents had followed a big touring car from Common street, Lawrence, to the "North Andover Farm" the day before.

Agents Goodrich, Lord, Lorden, Aldrich and Earl with a North Andover police official conducted the raid. They allege to have found Tony Alimo, alias Orlando, of 237½ Common street, Lawrence, operating the huge 600-gallon still. Alimo at first claimed ownership of the plant. Later the officers say he implicated three others.

James Calzetta, who occupies the house on the property at 464 Johnson street, was also arrested. Both were held in $500 bonds when arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Ellis in this city.

When arrested, Alimo, the officers declare, confessed to participation in the North Andover alcohol manufacture project.

He and his partners paid $2 000 each into the deal. Three others were involved, he said. The redistillation plant was the last word in construction.

Raw ethyl alcohol, hitherto believed to be impossible of re-distillation and known to government chemists as deadly poison, was purchased by the partners Alimo told them, so the agents assert.

It was delivered at the plant in barrel lots. The cost to the combination was $1 per gallon. Alimo told the officers that the "poison was taken out" by washing the ethyl alcohol with a chemical and salting solution.

Later the stuff, re-distilled, was sold to Lawrence retailers and makers of "out" whiskey at $3.50 to $4 a gallon.

LAWYERS FIGHT WILLETT STORY ON THE STAND

George F. Willett of Norwood, head of the firm of Willett, Sears & Co., remained on the witness stand all day in the firm's $15,000,000 suit against Robert Winsor, Daniel Wing, Robert F. Herrick and other Boston financial magnates in the Norfolk Superior Court at Dedham.

Sherman L. Whipple, attorney for Willett, Sears & Co., continued to draw from the witness, over frequent objections by counsel representing the defendants, statements showing the strong financial standing of the so-called "Willett companies" prior to their being pledged to the defendants for loans in a financial pinch, and which the plaintiffs claim were wrested from them in a conspiracy on the part of the defendants.

VALUE OF PROPERTIES.

Judge Callahan continued to admit to the consideration of the jury the evidence of the sound standing of the "Willett companies" to show that the defendants were familiar with their soundness and not to show the value of the properties. These were the American Felt Company and its subsidiaries, the Daniel Green Felt Shoe Company, The Boston Piano Supply Company and others.

Letters were identified by Willett, over the strenuous objection of George L. Mayberry and other defendant counsel, written by him to Kidder, Peabody & Co., enclosing statements by a public accountant which showed that the current assets of the American Felt Company in 1917 amounted to $3,690,810, and that the sales of the company for that year amounted to $6,584,350.

LETTER FROM WINSOR

The first of Willett's letters to Kidder, Peabody & Company was dated April 17, 1917. A letter in reply from Robert Winsor, member of that firm, dated April 21, 1917, was read. The letter was written in longhand by Winsor himself. It read:

"Many thanks for yours of the 17th, which was good reading. I am having it read by the young men.

Signed "Robert Winsor."

Every moment during the examination of the witness was tense. The defendant's counsel watched Attorney Whipple's every move and objected in detail and as a whole to the line of evidence he was calling forth from the witness. Judge Callahan overrode these objections and the counsel took exceptions.

Firemen Want to See Engines Run, Set Three Blazes

Nyack, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Three Nyack firemen who "wanted to see their engines run" because they were bored by inactivity, are in jail as the result of a confession that they set fire to three buildings.

The arrest followed a tip that a plot was on foot to set fire to the Nyack Pocketbook factory.

The confession is said to have stated that the "firemen were tired of letting their engines stand in the sheds without ever using them."

and Lloyd George, could be brought together. Therefore the announcement of the reunion furnished one of the big sensations of the day.

Addressing the House today, Premier Baldwin said that, since the late Bonar Law had promised there would be no fundamental change in the government's fiscal policy during the life of the present Parliament, his (the Premier's) only course "as an honest man," was to place his views before the country.

If the country released him from Bonar Law's pledge and gave him a mandate he could incorporate in next year's budget such measures as he deemed necessary. He reiterated his view that a protective tariff was necessary to relieve unemployment.

About Texas
Very Large State
Bigness the Least of It
Fine Men, Better Women
Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, by Star Company

THIS IS written on a journey between New York and Fort Worth, Texas, via the Pennsylvania and the M. K. & T.

You pick up the well-edified Muskogee Daily Phoenix, studying first the news summary. It gives fourteen lines to Muskogee, twelve lines to the United States in general, two lines and a quarter to Europe.

THAT'S INTENSIVE cultivation in the home field. Some statesmen that would like Uncle Sam to go wandering over Europe like a Yankee Don Quixote, seeking adventure, should subscribe to the Muskogee Daily Phoenix and read it carefully.

TEXAS IS the State for which the flying machine was invented. Automobiles will do for other States; not for Texas. They can't go far enough in a week.

On the fastest train you leave the eastern border of Texas at Texarkana, at 8 a. m. You reach the western side of the State at El Paso at 12:59 p. m. on the next day. Several European nations could be packed on either side of that stretch of railroad track.

Fold your map of the United States up toward the North and Texas reaches Canada. Fold it down toward the South, it reaches well into Central America. Fold it to the right, eastward, it reaches New York; to the left, westward, it reaches California.

YET MERE bigness is the least of Texas greatness.

Edmund Burke, striving to establish peace between England and her North American colonies—he failed luckily—thought he was paying us quite a compliment when he said: "There is America, which at this day serves for little more than to amuse you with stories of savage men and uncouth manners, yet shall, before you taste of death, show itself equal to the whole of that commerce which now attracts the envy of the world."

TEXAS, under intensive cultivation, could easily feed the sixteen hundred million inhabitants of this earth, and Texas will, in days to come, eclipse the commerce of Britain, as completely as Britain now eclipses that of Haiti.

IF IT WERE possible for Burke to see this magnificent State, a gigantic empire within a great Republic, as it exists now with its high roads, railroads, great cities, forests, farms, factories, packing plants, orchards, and happy people, even his fine vocabulary and extraordinary imagination would fail to express the wonder with which he would be filled.

INEXHAUSTIBLE, inconceivable, is the wealth of that State. Yet its greatness lies neither in size nor in wealth, but in character and purpose. When the people of Texas wrote their declaration of independence of Mexico, and established themselves a Republic, before they entered the United States, they put in that declaration a few words more important to the future of Texas and humanity than all the oil wells, all the fertile land.

Texas cut herself off from Mexico because the government of Mexico had failed to provide public schools for the children.

WHEREVER YOU look in Texas today, you see magnificent public schools, high schools, as beautiful as the palaces of old, State normal schools and other public institutions, for education.

In the comparatively small city of Denton, five thousand young girls study under State direction. Those girls represent the Texas "crop" of high value.

BUT THE bigness of Texas does overwhelm you, after visiting other geographical divisions, just as the bigness of the Coliseum, or the grandeur of St. Peter's impresses you, after seeing other buildings.

In an ordinary State, or country, you shoot an arrow in the air, and it falls to earth you know not where.

But you can shoot an arrow, or a shell from a "Big Bertha" in Texas, go to the spot where it landed, shoot it again, and keep that up indefinitely, and it will land, everlastingly, IN TEXAS. It's really a big State, and very beautiful.

BUY YOURSELF a little house in Switzerland and a little automobile. That car will take you in a short run to France, Italy, Germany, Austria, Belgium.

Settle, in the centre of Texas, and you will wear out your tires trying to get anywhere else.

IT'S A RUGGED State, a powerful State, conscious of its present greatness and of the future.

It's a hospitable State. In Forth Worth, of which you shall read more on another day, you see, in a fine public park, a beautifully laid out "tourists' camp." There automobiles crossing the continent may stop over night, or as long as they please, and think over the bigness of Texas, a thousand miles from edge to edge. They are welcome. There is no charge. Free baths are supplied; a big free kitchen with free gas and free water for the tourists' comfort. No one suggests that you spend a cent, except when you fill your gas tank at 8 or 9 cents a gallon.

THINK OF a State in which, because of cheap fuel, electric power costs one cent a kilowatt hour.

Think of reading, tucked away in a corner of that admirable daily, dear to all Texans, the Dallas Morning News, this casual announcement, printed yesterday: "Another large gas well, the largest yet tapped in the Ada Field, was brought in Saturday at 1,317 feet. Open flow gauge on the well measured twenty-six million feet; the tools were blown out of the hole."

NO WONDER young Stinnes, whose father seems to own most of the real money in Germany, and a good deal of what is left in Russia, is now mousing around in Texas to see what he can see and buy.

There is more hidden away under this land of Texas than all the wealth that all the imaginations of the world ever dreamed.

EVERY OTHER State in this Union can be proud of being "a sister of Texas." And Texas might well put over the door of every public building, refinery, factory, farm house and school, "It hath not yet been shown what we shall be."

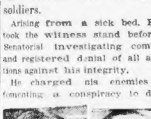
EX-HEAD OF VET BUREAU FIGHTS BACK

Declares He Is Victim of Plot; Says Dr. Sawyer Blocked Relief Work

Washington, Nov. 13 (I.N.S.)—Charles R. Forbes, former director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, today began "beating back" against wholesale charges of graft and inefficiency in his administration of Federal aid to disabled soldiers.

Arising from a sick bed, Forbes took the witness stand before the Senatorial investigating committee and registered denial of all accusations against his integrity.

He charged his enemies with fomenting a conspiracy to destroy



C. R. Forbes

him through "perjury, subordination of perjury and suppression of material facts."

Forbes scathingly attacked Brigadier-General Charles E. Sawyer, former White House physician and head of the Hospitalization Board, charging him with constant interference with the bureau's work.

"Most of the deficiencies in the administration of laws providing for relief of disabled soldiers," Forbes declared, "has been due to two things—politics and Sawyer."

Forbes flatly denied much of Sawyer's statement that he had been "fired by President Harding for insubordination in selling surplus supplies at Perryville."

On the contrary, Forbes declared, he retired from office a month before the Perryville incident.

Forbes read his statement with visible effort before a committee room that was packed with spectators eager to hear him tell his own story.

He denied specifically that he had ever turned a dishonest penny in the administration of the bureau's affairs or that he engaged in "graft, liquor drinking and loose conduct in office."

"I admit there were imperfections in the bureau under my directorship," but I do assert that I have not consciously been guilty of any wrong doing by act or neglect."

DON'T SEE THE JOB.

In a statement to the committee Colonel Forbes said:

"I do not mean that my administration was blameless; I do not deny its imperfections; I do not seek to shift any responsibilities to others, but I do assert that I have not conscientiously guilty of any wrong doing by either act or neglect.

"I had it only proper to state that I did not seek this position. When the present administration came into office I was ambitious to become a member of the Shipping Board which had been communicated to the late President, who had been my political and personal friend for many years. Mr. Harding forcibly advised me that it was impossible to gratify my ambition and he urged me to handle for him the position of director of the War Risk Insurance Bureau. I accepted the position with much misgiving, especially after an interview with Colonel Charles Jones, my predecessor.

BLOCKED BY SAWYER.

"When I first met Colonel Charles Jones he said: 'Colonel Forbes, you are coming into a job which will bring you only grief and sorrow. It is politically stagnant and I do not believe you or any other man will ever be able to put it over.'

"It was not long before I realized that Colonel Charles Jones had spoken the truth.

"Immediately upon assuming office on April 28, 1921, I began an investigation and study of the operations of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance and of other governmental agencies which then were supposed to be acting in co-operation for relief of the disabled veterans.

Coolidge Believes Way Is Open for Lower Taxes

Washington, Nov. 13.—Without committing himself either to approval or disapproval of the Treasury tax revision program, President Coolidge today let it be known that he regards the proposal as a step toward opening the way for meeting the demand of the country for lower taxes.

FIRE MENACES OLD SALEM HOMES

Salem, Nov. 13.—A general alarm was sounded today, when Salem's finest old residential section, including upper Essex, Chestnut and other streets, was threatened by fire. Mrs. Sara Jenks, ninety years old and helpless, was overcome by smoke and carried to safety by firemen. She is now in the Salem Hospital, where it is said she will recover.

The first started in the home of Dr. Phillip R. Dwyer at No. 334 Essex street. A high wind prevailed and, when the flames burst through the building, a general alarm was sounded by the fire chief to prevent a conflagration. The district is congested with wooden structures and many of them have wood shingles for roofing. The fire was stopped in the building in which it started, however, and the loss was not great.

LEGION HEAD KLAN MAN, GALLIVAN SAYS

Congressman James A. Gallivan, while on Boston for Armistice Day, refused to participate in any American Legion functions. In replying to those who had invited him to attend Legion affairs he bluntly told them that he would have nothing further to do with the Legion or any of its functions, because, he alleged, the Legion had elected a Klansman as its head. He refers, of course, to the new national commander, John R. Quinn. Mr. Gallivan claims Quinn is active in the order.

2 HUSBANDS KILL SELVES AFTER ROWS

Domestic Quarrels Cause One to Take Gas, Other to Swallow Poison

The Boston police today reported two suicides in the city, both men and both due to unhappiness in their married lives.

Herbert Beatty, twenty-two, was found dead in his bed, propped up with pillows and a tube from an open gas cock in his mouth, in his apartment, No. 73 West Concord street. His thirty-two-year-old wife left him yesterday after repeated quarrels.

Morris Hor[illegible], thirty-nine, of No. 28 Bluehill avenue, Roxbury, drank carbolic acid and died later, because his wife had sworn out a warrant charging non-support.

Beatty, who was a veteran of the 49th Infantry, U. S. A., and his wife had quarreled frequently, according to the police, and Beatty yesterday struck his wife. She went away, telling him that she would not return. He retired to his bed room and later Mrs. Anna Davis, who lived in the apartment above, smelled gas. She went down to investigate and found Beatty dead.

Mrs. Horwitz told the police that after she had caused the arrest of her husband she relented and bailed him out. This morning she found him unconscious in bed and called a physician. At the City Hospital Horwitz was revived for a short time. He told the surgeons and nurses that he had taken carbolic acid and wanted to die.

SEEK TO RECOVER FLOATING PALACE

Rome, Nov. 13.—An attempt is to be made to recover from Lake Nemi, near Rome, the floating palace of the Emperor Tiberius, consisting of two galleys which have been buried in the mud for nineteen centuries and are believed to contain marvels of classical art equal to those found in the tomb of Tutankhamun.

The expense of the work will be borne by private individuals in order not to burden the government. The project has the approval of Premier Mussolini.

HUBBY GUILTY, WIFE FREED, IN ARSON CASE

Ralph De Angelis of No. 17 Bay View street, Revere, was found guilty by a jury of Superior Criminal Court before Judge Keating, on the indictment charging him with burning his house with intent to defraud an insurance company.

Before submitting the case to the jury Judge Keating asked that a verdict of not guilty be found in the case of Anna De Angelis, wife of the defendant, who was jointly indicted with the husband. Mrs. De Angelis was a witness for the government. She testified that kerosene had never been used in the house and that when she left the house at 5 p. m. on the day of the fire there was no kerosene there.

Emmett De Angelis, the son, testified that just before the fire his father said to him, "get the h——l out of here. My time is limited."

Since the fire De Angelis and his wife have lived apart. Mrs. De Angelis has brought separation proceedings against the husband.

MAGNUS JOHNSON "SUSPECTS" MELLON

St. Paul, Nov. 12.—"I don't stand for any reduction in excess profits tax for business or a lowering of the high surtaxes for individual incomes," Senator-Elect Magnus Johnson, farmer-labor, Minnesota, said in commenting on the Mellon tax program.

"Many of the so-called nuisance taxes I believe should be reduced," Mr. Johnson said. "The statements of Mr. Mellon that there would be no tax reductions if a soldier bonus was passed seemed to be a little bit of politics and I was rather suspicious of them," he said.

HUBBY ASKS FILM STAR TO STOP SUIT FOR $200,000

Los Angeles, Nov. 13 (I.N.S.)—Mary Miles Minter, erstwhile flaxen haired little Miss Muffet of the films and now an equally dainty little farmerette in a suburban town, will be offered a little less than $200,000 to quit arguing about who received the money she earned when she was a screen star, says the Los Angeles Examiner today.

The offer will be made within a couple of days—secretly. It also seems equally certain that the demure little Mary will spurn the offer.

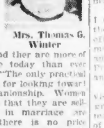
According to the Examiner, a tabulated statement of Miss Minter's earnings, estimated at $1,000,000, will show that:

Six hundred thousand dollars, or 50 per cent., went to the government in the form of income tax.

Three hundred thousand, or the usual 30 per cent., went to her mother as the regular commission that a screen star's manager is supposed to get, and that leaves only $100,000 out of the original million.

SAYS MAN LOOKS FOR "PAL" IN MARRIAGE

San Francisco, Nov. 13.—Companionship and not the preventive of divorce, in the opinion of Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs.



Mrs. Thomas G. Winter

"The only happy marriages are the 50-50 contracts, and they are more of them being made today than ever before," she said. "The only practical reason a man has for looking toward marriage is companionship. Women who have an idea that they are selling their bodies in marriage are wrong—because there is no price that is satisfactory after the deal is closed.

"I find nothing ominous in comparing big city life of today with the puritanical conveniences of village life a few generations ago. Then everything was holy and respectable on the surface, but there was plenty of rottenness underneath.

GIRLS, HERE ARE WAYS TO FOIL WILY CROOKS

On the eve of the holiday season Superintendent Michael H. Crowley is giving some fatherly advice to woman shoppers to watch their pocketbooks and handbags.

Pickpockets and "dips," he says, flock to the crowded stores and subways on the heels of those with holiday rolls to be spent on Christmas gifts.

He has a plan to fool them if the women:

Don't carry money in armbags.

Don't have bags or bundles on store counters.

Don't exhibit money in public places. Carry only what you need.

Don't join street crowds in case of accident where crowds collect.

Don't bother who did it if you are crowded while leaving or entering a street car—clap your hand over your money until clear of all.

Don't try to push others out of your way. It makes just the opportunity for a crook to work.

Don't neglect precaution in subway or tunnel crowds. Here pickpockets excel.

Don't fail to shout if you see a thief working outside. If in a store, notify the floor walker.

Don't forget that thieves of all sorts are skulking about the city stealing tags when buying clothes, bundles from wagons, bags and purses and rolls of money from men and women.

HUB FLAPPERS SPY VALENTINO; GET A THRILL

My dear, can you imagine it?

Rudolph Valentino, sheik of the silver screen trying to remain incognito in Boston. Why, he wasn't in the city a half-hour before he was recognized by scores of bobbed hair flappers, who thrilled to this presence.

Registered at the Copley Plaza under the name of Rodolpho Guglielmi (Rudolph Williams in English) he might have got away with his desire for privacy as far as the male population was concerned, but the bright eyes of the feminine screen fans would have known him on sight if he had called himself Mike Ruffleinski.

Interviewed by a reporter—how these screen stars hate to be interviewed—Rodolpho declared that the stories eminating from Paris that he had 200 suits of clothes and that he did not want any publicity just now, but—It is too bad how business has slumped in filmdom and too much money has been spent on movie-making in the past, and the plots of most movies are too thin for words, and producers do not give the public credit for intelligence, and if France and Italy would only undertake movie production on the right scale how wonderful their pictures would be, the Latins having so much more artistic temperament and fine feeling, et cetera, ad libitum.

And there you are, my dear.

SCHERMANN READING CHARACTER
Psycho-graphologist diagnosing disease and character from handwriting on his arrival here. A nervous breakdown has forced him to cancel his engagements here.

SCHERMANN IN COLLAPSE, QUITS HUB

Rafael Schermann, the psychographologist from Vienna, who came to Boston from New York to demonstrate his power of reading the character of a person from a sample of handwriting has cancelled his engagements in Boston and left for New York.

Herr Rafael's companions on his American tour, James H. Pond of New York and Eugene S. Bagger, Parisian journalist, gave out that the "man with the x-Ray eyes" had suffered a nervous break down.

He was to have lectured tonight and tomorrow night in Jordan Hall on "handwriting and destiny," and "love and crime in handwriting." He plans to fill the engagement at a later date.

50 MILLION GUM DIVIDEND TO BE XMAS "GIFT"

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Directors of the William Wrigley, Jr., Company, chewing gum manufacturers, authorized a stock melon of approximately $50,000,000 which will reach the stockholders as a Christmas gift.

The remarkable growth of this industry, which has erected two of Chicago's handsomest buildings and maintained other enterprises, leads to speculation on how much gum must be chewed to produce all this wealth.

Gross sales for this year are estimated at $27,000,000. The figures are known up to November 1 and November and December are estimated.

Getting down to the gum itself, there are twelve packages of five sticks each to a box, and the sales for the year will approximate 54,000,000 boxes, or 648,000,000 packages. Multiply this by five and you have the number of sticks or "chews" over which the shapely jaws of this and other countries are working industriously.

The Wrigley Company manufactures four varieties of gum and a chewing sweet, the latter being small circular sweets, packed twelve to a box. In round numbers the output for the year would be about 5,000,000,000 pieces, each of which, with the exception of the chewing sweets, is wrapped three times or more.

Officials of the company and expert calculators at the universities declined to go into figures estimating the total horsepower developed by human jaws in masticating this output, but it is something enormous.

CROKER SEEKS $160,000 FROM BOSS' ESTATE

Mrs. Beulah Croker. Mrs. Ethel C. White.

New York, Nov. 13 (I.N.S.)—The international battle of the sons of Richard Croker, one time Tammany chieftain, against his "Indian Princess" widow, Mrs. Bula Croker, seeking a share of the Croker millions, was resumed today in New York Supreme Court.

Richard Croker, eldest son of the former Democratic leader, appeared in behalf of his brother Howard and his sister, Mrs. Ethel C. White. He asked judgment for $160,000 for his brother and sister. The children, including another daughter, Florence Croker, have already won $311,000 in judgments by New York courts.

Croker asks that the judgments be taken from the estate of his father, willed to the widow who married the elder Crokere in 1914, six months after the death of his first wife. The children contested this will before Lord Chief Justice Maloney in Dublin last June. A jury decided in favor of the widow, cutting the children off with but $1,000 each.

At the Dublin hearing the children alleged Mrs. Beulah Croker, described as an "Indian Princess," had prevailed upon the millionaire politician and sportsman to cut his children off from his will. A sensational charge of bigamy, involving Guy Marnde, a tailor of Northampton, Mass., was brought into the case.

General dancing will follow until 1 A. M. to the music of the famous Copley-Plaza Hotel Tea Room Orchestra.

The teachers who are conducting the ball and their pupils are working hard to make the affair a big success. There will be solo and group dancing and many fine vocal numbers.

All of the women under whose auspices the ball will be conducted are widely known throughout Greater Boston. Madame Lyman recently opened an attractive new studio at No. 337 Massachusetts avenue, Back Bay, where her pupils are rehearsing for their part in the Charity Ball entertainment.

Miss Roche is favorably known in amateur theatrical circles.

Miss Corbett is widely known in the Somerville district, being a clever entertainer as well as teacher.

The first contribution to the Christmas Fund this season came from Attorney Robert Gallagher of Boston, who gave $5.00 to help us feed kiddies at Christmas. Mr. Gallagher is one of Boston's best known lawyers. Having several lovely children of his own he realized what a sad thing it would be for a kiddy to go hungry at Christmas.

'SCARAMOUCHE' IS THRILLING FILM PLAY

"Scaramouche" at the Park Theatre takes its place among the best big photoplays in Boston of recent years, with a romantic plot of intense interest, an irresistible hero, and the hectic, dramatic background of the French Revolution.

"Scaramouche," the novel on which the picture is based, was written by Rafael Sabatini, author of several big-selling books in the last few years. The film was directed by Rex Ingram, who also is credited with many successes.

STORY OF ENEMIES.

It is a story of two men, terrific enemies. They dominate the plot. Much of their mutual enmity is, however, caused by the beautiful Aline de Kercadiou, played by Alice Terry. The author holds a card up his sleeve until the end, and when he reveals it, the hatred of these two men becomes more than tragedy.

Ramon Navarro's portrayal of Scaramouche grows on one until his swashbuckling characterization of the quick-tempered, bellicose hero becomes very likable. Scaramouche is versatile, a lawyer, a revolutionist, an actor, a fencing master, a parliamentarian who debates with steel.

Lewis Stone no less excellently portrays his enemy, the Marquis, combining dignity, cruelty and bravery in features, bearing and action.

INTERESTING FILM.

Other characters, less prominent, are attractive in their ways, including Climene, the flirtatious; her grotesque actor-father, and the men of history, Danton, Marat, Robespierre, King Louis.

The first half of the film unfolds the basic plot, the second part the dramatic scenes. Eloquence, revolutionary gathering, bloodshed, dragoons, luxury and poverty, the cruel aristocracy and the fiendish rabble, beauty and ugliness, chivalry and honor, love and coquetry, hate, the bullet and the sword—all lend their bit to the play.

A full house saw the opening. The audience was "classy," what one might see at the opera. The theatre was prettily decorated with flags, an international touch, and the ushers wore costumes designed in French Revolutionary style and color.

ESCOBAR WINS TRIUMPH IN 'TRAVIATA'

By ZOE FABER

Consuelo Escobar, singing the role of Violetta in Verdi's "La Traviata" last night at the Opera House scored a big hit with an audience that filled the place from pit to roof, waxing more and more enthusiastic with every familiar aria.

Mme. Escobar has a clear, sometimes powerful coloratura soprano that showed to splendid advantage in the first act especially. The duet with Alfredo was well done, and that in the second act with the father of her lover brought forth storms of hearty approval.

Alfredo was sung by Adamo Chiappini, whose liquid tones blended well with those of Escobar. The interesting father was taken by Mario Valle, whose voice was good, but less effective in this opera than other things he sang last week. The part is of lesser consequence and that seemed to have had some bearing on his interpretation.

A brilliance was shown all over the entire opera by the immensely effective dancing of the Pavley-Oukrainsky ballet with particular reference to Miles. Milar and Shermont. Their Spanish dance was stunning and the audience would gladly have had much more of the same thing, but opera does not relinquish its laurels to dancing so easily as that.

Carlo Peroni conducted the orchestra well.

The familiar double bill, "Cavalleria" and "Pagliacci," will be sung tonight.

BAFFLING MYSTERY IN GAIETY SHOW

The unusual contrast of perfect frankness and baffling mystery is presented in "Step On It" this week at the Gayety Theatre, where George Wilde and Spencer Bergen in a week of twice-a-day burlesque yesterday afternoon. A host of pretty girls frankly demonstrated their symmetry in many dances and song numbers, and Horace Goldin provides the mystery in two illusions he presents as an added and diverting attraction. Miss Spencer and Mr. Wilde caught the crowd with their dancing and cavorting and both showed a willingness to coöperate that led them into repeated encores that the applause demanded. Goldin's illusions baffled all beholders. "Sawing a Woman in Half" looks not half as terrifying as it sounds, for the girl who is severed midriff immediately appears in full view, and intact. There is crowded into the generous measure of entertainment many snappy musical turns and ensembles.

MUSICAL PLAY SCORES HIT AT ST. JAMES

If the Boston Stock Company had a middle name it would be Versatility. As a regular stock company it ranks high. Into melodrama it ventured for the first time earlier in the season. This week it is scoring heavily with musical comedy in "Very Good Eddie." From now on nothing from Shakespearian productions to an idealization of Uncle Tom's well-known cabin would surprise its admirers.

It was a debut for musical comedy at the St. James but it was a creditable one. The company is well stocked with musical talent and an added chorus of a dozen of stunning girls, handsomely gowned, aids in getting it over big.

Eddie, the Cupid-like other half of the Junoesque bride, originally played by Ernest Truex, is handled admirably by Houston Richards. Adelyn Bushnell, the smaller half of the other couple, is his misfit companion on the honeymoon of slip-ups.

It would be unjust to wait longer to tell what a knockout Walter Gilbert is as a hotel clerk. Walter, formerly with Julia Sanderson in "The Arcadians," is well known to Boston. He got a hand when he came on. Before the curtain went down at the finish he had everything in the house.

Jill Middleton, ingenue, brought past experience in musical comedy work to her part and put across some very clever dancing and singing, with Samuel Godfrey as Dick Rivers, for a partner.

Edward Darnell as the other bridegroom and Ralph M. Remley as the blackface steward, deserve special mention. The musical numbers were well rendered. The Viola Dana number, "On the Beach at Le Lei Wi," with Miss Middleton leading, scored a hit.

NOTED MINSTREL BIG HIT AT KEITH'S

Eddie Leonard of minstrel fame staged a comeback at Keith's Theatre last night. If applause and appreciation count for anything in the theatrical world, Eddie can be well assured of success.

"Wee" Georgie Wood, a diminutive English Peter Pan, shared almost equal honors with Leonard. The boy is a wonder. His rendering of difficult comedy and serious poetry is a tribute to his early training back in England.

Mang and Snyder, 20th century wonders and master athletes show acrobatic versatility.

Boston University may be well proud of its showing the girls from the College of Secretarial Science made in their musical offering as a Fund Act. Boston University is now conducting a campaign for $1,000,000. Other acts included Eddie Kane and Jay Herman, "Midnight Sons"; Stella Tracy and Carl McBride, "Bits of Exclusiveness"; Keller Sisters and Frank Lynch, "Spirit of Youth"; and Thea Allen, "Four Minds in One."

"BREAKING POINT" AT THE SOMERVILLE

The return of Ann McDonald to the Somerville Theatre Players was evidently most welcome to the audience last night, where she appeared as Beverly Carlisle in "The Breaking Point," a play by Mary Roberts Rinehart. The play is a melodrama of extraordinary interest with enough exciting action to satisfy the most ardent thrill lover. Bernard Nadell, as a young amnesia victim, showed some remarkable ability as a dramatic star. His scenes with Miss McDonald were especially fine.

BILLY WATSON AT WALDRON'S CASINO

"Sliding" Billy Watson and his company of burlesque comedians and comediennes came to Boston yesterday at Waldron's Casino.

The famous sliding comedian has a new show this season, one that is crowded with novelties. It is a musical, fun-filled production that adds to the popularity which Watson enjoys because of previous successes here.

The plot of the burlesque in which "Sliding" Billy Watson and his supporting players appear gives much opportunity for the eccentric comedian to display his ludicrous, acrobatic trick.

In the supporting company are Bennie Platt, Hebrew comedian; Frank Mallahan, cowboy comedian; Inez de Verder, prima donna; Ruby Wallace, ingenue; Ethel de Veaux, soubrette, and others.

"SCANDALS" AT THE COLONIAL THEATRE

George White's Scandals, series of 1923, began its local engagement at the Colonial Theatre last evening. A typical "Scandals," it revealed color and daring in its costuming, brilliancy in its comedy and agreeable lyrics and musical numbers. Buddy de Sylva, E. Ray Goetz and Ballard McDonald supplied the lyrics, George Gershwin is responsible for the score, and there were supplementary comedy scenes by George White and William K. Wells.

Among the principals in the long cast were Lester Allen, Winnie Lightner, Tom Patricola, Richard Bold, Olive Vaughn, Alice Weaver and Newton Alexander. The Scandals will be reviewed in Wednesday's Boston American.

'NELLIE KELLY' WELCOMED BACK TO HUB

"Little Nellie Kelly" is back in Boston—and theatre-going Boston should be mighty glad.

This typical George M. Cohan show, which was with us all too short a time last year, should pack the Tremont theatre during its present four weeks stay, for it is clean, bright, scintillating and is replete with tuneful melodies, and is a dancing show that cannot be surpassed. We say that without fear, for there could not be more dancing in a show than there is in this one.

And right here, let it be said that Elizabeth Hines, as Nellie, and little Charlie King, as Jerry Conroy, ran away with the show last night. No happier pair of stars could lead a wonderful company than Mr. Cohan has selected in this couple. They both sing and dance exceedingly well and both have something that so many stage stars lack—a personality that makes the audience feel that they are all members of a happy family. You get what we mean? If you don't you had better go to this show.

The entire cast are all typical George M. Cohan comedians who know how to put on a song and dance show, and you have it. But we cannot refrain from giving an added word of praise to the dancing of the Loraine Sisters, and petite Marion Stoll. Their dancing is superb. It is a show worth seeing more than once.

CLEAN COHAN COMEDY AT SELWYN

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

A TRADITIONAL air of Cohanic respectability trickled through "Two Fellows and a Girl" at the Selwyn last evening and raised your faith in an idea, more or less out of practice in the theatre, that comedy good for children may also be found amusing to their sophisticated elders.

It was a play of our best young people in which everybody was so uprightly decent that you caught yourself wondering why it was so entertaining. Romantic comedy, with all the well known ingredients carefully mixed, "Two Fellows and a Girl" had many of the aspects of rollicking farce modulated to a more sedate tempo. Youth is a wonderful thing wherever you discover it and in this play it had a merry fling that made the evening seem well spent.

BABY VAMP SCORES.

Mr. Cohan did not write the play, but there were moments when you had good reason to suspect that he might have been sitting at Vincent Lawrence's elbow during the constructive stages. In any event, it was a pleasant play for anybody to write. With two likely young chaps paying impetuous court to the same girl there was reason to expect lively scenes, but when she made her decision on the flip of a coin the bottom dropped completely out of every well-known rule of romantic fulfillment.

But out of the developments there grew a fine crop of soul-tickling situations, including a baby vamp. This sprightly maiden not only caught your fancy, but also managed to throw the plot high in the air. As played by Claiborne Foster she was a delicious bit of femininity, fair to look upon, and belonging very much to the present.

ADMIRABLY ACTED.

Few plays of so slight texture have come to us with so much acting strength. Ruth Shepley, as the girl in the case, gave a sincere, well tuned performance, and John Halliday and Allan Dinehart served faithfully and well as the masculine rivals. The play was admirably acted.

If "Two Fellows and a Girl" wasn't a fair burden of nonsense, it was the kind you could enjoy; if, at times, it taxed your reasoning, that too could be forgiven because of its cheerfulness. It was amusing without dragging in noisy scenes and wild scampering about the stage, and it proved itself more than safe for youthful eyes—a good entertainment for sweethearts.

Coming Events

"So This Is London!" will come to the Hollis next Monday, making the third George M. Cohan piece in downtown theatres.

"Madeline and the Movies" will occupy the talents of the players at the St. James next week—another link in the chain of Mr. Cohan's local operations.

James Barton in "Dew Drop Inn" will be the attraction at the Majestic beginning next Monday.

"The Love Child," with Janet Beecher and Lee Baker, will take the stage at the Plymouth next Monday evening.

"Bozo" Snyder in "Follies of the Day," is announced as the attraction at the Gayety next week.

"Shavings," a dramatization of Joseph C. Lincoln's famous Cape Cod story, will be the attraction at the St. James next week.

Plays That Remain

SHUBERT—"Mary Jane McKane." Musical comedy hit of the season, with Mary Hay and Hal Skelley at the top of a long list of merry entertainers.

HOLLIS—Ina Claire in "The Awful Truth." Final week of a cheerful comedy in which romance predominates.

PLYMOUTH—"The Cat and the Canary." Now on its last week. A mystifying drama of thrills, laughs and spooks.

WILBUR—"Sally, Irene and Mary." Sentimental musical comedy with Eddie Dowling alternating between tears and flippant chatter.

MAJESTIC—"Caroline." Operetta of the Viennese brand in which Myrtle Schaaf's fine voice does its full duty.

Coolidge at Theatre

Washington, Nov. 13.—President and Mrs. Coolidge attended the theatre for the first time since they entered the White House. They saw John Drinkwater's drama, "Robert E. Lee."

'UNDER THE RED ROBE' PLEASES NOTED PERSONS

By JOSEPH MILVANEY.

New York, Nov. 13.—The world premiere of "Under the Red Robe," the latest Cosmopolitan Feature Photoplay, was given at the Cosmopolitan Theatre in Columbus Circle before one of the most noteworthy assemblages of the season.

With the big play house filled to the last limit of standing room, thousands of persons sought admittance, offering double and treble the box office rates in their eagerness to obtain a view of the mighty screen spectacle.

The gala opening of the Metropolitan Opera House last week was rivaled in the splendor of the assembly. Leaders of the social world were there, prominent officials of the city, State and national governments, celebrities of the stage and screen and distinguished representatives of virtually ever profession.

HERBERT CONDUCTS.

Victor Herbert conducted the orchestra through the inspiring overture, and John Charles Thomas, one of the featured members of the great cast in the photoplay, sang the prologue to "Pagliacci."

From the introductory scene the drama of old France held the spectators tense. Thomas, as the debonair Gil De Berault, was pronounced the ideal of Stanley Weyman's gentleman adventurer.

Then came the marvelous interpretation of Cardinal Richelieu, "His Gray Eminence," given by the veteran Shakespearean star, Robert Mantell.

MANTELL FLAWLESS.

Critics of the stage asserted that never before the footlights had Mantell given so flawlessly fine a characterization. He made of Richelieu a great patriot, inspired by devotion to his God and his King.

Alma Rubens as Renee, every inch a princess, with her dark, alluring beauty and consummate grace, called forth spontaneous applause at her first appearance.

Rose Coshlan, Genevieve Hamper Otto Kruger, Charles Judels and all the rest of the noteworthy company came in for commendation.

Remaining Films

FENWAY—Polo Negri in "The Spanish Dancer." A Paramount production that employs Negri's talent to the utmost. Antonio Moreno lending a helping hand. Romantic and cheerful, not to mention the thrills.

TREMONT TEMPLE—"The Hunchback of Notre Dame." A Universal picture adapted from Victor Hugo's great story. Notable for its scenic splendors, as well as for the gifted impersonation of the Hunchback by Lon Chaney.

COPPER TANK IN KITCHEN LEADS TO $250 FINE

This is a story of a copper tank, which by no means conveys the idea that all coppers are tanks.

Sergeant Sullivan and Liquor Officer Mahoney of Roxbury Crossing Station visited the home of Matthew and Mary Brennan, No. 1257 Columbus avenue, with a search warrant on October 24.

Long search availed nothing at the Brennan home until one of the cops smelled something strangely familiar in a cupboard under the kitchen sink. Tearing away the wall, the searchers found the tank, of several gallons capacity. It was filled from a tube back of a roller towel, with a tiny faucet under the sink for drawing.

The copper tank, of two sections, was the silent witness in court. Brennan had been in court before on a similar charge.

Mary was sentenced to pay a fine of $250, and Matthew was awarded four months in the House of Correction before Judge Weston in Roxbury Court today, because of the copper tank the cops found in the wall of the kitchen. Both appealed. Both are on $500 bail.

WATCH TO SEE HEALER ARISE FROM DEAD

New York, Nov. 13.—Disciples of Frederick L. Rawson, British spiritual healer, who died of double pneumonia, are keeping vigil over his body at the funeral parlors of August Eickelberg, No. 934 Eighth avenue.

In pairs, most of them women, they are watching day and night and praying beside the bier until word is received from his wife in England as to the disposal of the body, or until—as they hope—he will arise from the dead.

One of the women watchers, who called herself a student of Mr. Rawson's, denied that the sect of which he was a founder, believed necessarily that he would arise from the dead. She admitted, however, that in keeping with the tenets of their belief such a thing is possible.

"We do not necessarily expect," she said, "that Mr. Rawson will arise from what you call death.

"We simply accept whatever happens and would not presume to ask God to do that which is not in accord with His plans.

"If it is His plan that Mr. Rawson will be among us in the flesh again, then we shall accept that and be glad. If it is His will that he shall not, then we shall accept that also."

One of the officials of the funeral parlors said that never in his twenty-one years of experience had he seen another body continue so long in such a remarkable state of preservation. "It's really uncanny," he said. "They have asked us to keep the body seven days before embalming, but we are not allowed to keep it beyond the fourth day, by ruling of the health department."

To a reporter who viewed the body this assertion seemed borne out.

CARDINAL DONATES TO RED CROSS FUND

A contribution from Cardinal O'Connell ushered in the seventh annual Roll Call of the Metropolitan Chapter, American Red Cross. The campaign, to last until Thanksgiving Day, has been, thus far, successful, many checks having been received at the headquarters, No. 73 Newbury street.

Exercise Will Aid Poise and Muscle, Declares Expert

This is the fourth and last of a series of articles in primitive gymnastics. Sir Niels Bukh has been knighted by the Danish King for his work in developing the youth of Denmark at his school in Ollerup. He at present is touring the United States with thirty of his pupils, demonstrating how high a degree of perfection the human body may attain within a brief period of training, and last night demonstrated his methods at Symphony Hall under the auspices of the Playground and Recreation Association of America.

By SIR NIELS BUKH

What is the secret of the woman of perfect poise—the woman who faces any society with that consciousness of power which gives her superlative charm? It is a perfect balance, a perfect co-ordination of the muscles which makes for this attractive sureness. Watch the majority of women who walk across a room with many people looking on. Seldom will one find a woman who negotiates the parade with equanimity. But she who is strong and graceful and sure is a symphony of movement and loveliness.

CO-ORDINATE MUSCLES.

After the muscles are limber and strength has been developed in them, it is well to begin the co-ordination exercises. These difficult balancing exercises, when finally mastered, do much to develop a beautiful body.

Exercise 1—Stand erect, feet close together. Rise on toes, slowly raising arms to sides at the same time. Lower arms and heels very slowly and repeat. This is one of the primary co-ordinating exercises.

Exercise 2—Stand erect. Rise on toes, raising arms to sides at the same time. Bend left leg slowly. Repeat with right leg. Maintain position for a moment to get the sense of balance.

Exercise 3—Stand on right leg. Place left a step back and rest on toe. Arms raising slowly to sides, bend right knee and hip, while left foot slowly raises until it is parallel with the floor. Repeat this poised position until you can hold it without wavering.

FITNESS AMPLE REWARD.

Regular exercising generally is a bug-a-boo to many. One hesitates to discover his inefficiencies, for all of us are primitively worshipful of physical strength, and confident of our untried prowess. But exercises need not be intricate to be useful, and the speed with which one develops that feeling of fitness is ample recompense for all efforts.

The habit of perfection may be developed with as much readiness as the habit of unfitness; the erect position is more useful than the slumping one, and lightness is more pleasant than that heavy feeling which so many possess.

If regular exercise was a basic perfection would become the rule.

3 IN ONE FAMILY PERISH WHEN COAL BARGE SINKS

Lewes, Del., Nov. 13.—Word was brought here today of the foundering off Fenwick Island, Va., of the coal barge Marion O'Boyle with the loss of three lives. Those dead are James Matthew and his wife and daughter.

The loss of the barge became known when Robert Curtis and Robert Taylor, members of the crew, floated ashore on some wreckage and reported to the Fenwick Island Coast Guard crew.

The swimmers said that the barge sprang a leak in a northeast storm and the five left in a small boat. As they neared shore the boat upset in a bar and the captain, his wife and daughter were drowned.

The barge, with the City of Orleans and Druid Hill was in tow of the tug Underwriter, which left Norfolk on Saturday for Providence, R. I. When the storm came up the tug cut loose and the barges anchored to ride out the storm.

The coast guard cutter Kickapoo has left Cape May, N. J., to search for the crew of one of the other barges, who abandoned their vessel.

DEFENCE BALKS AT RETRIAL OF CORCORAN

Doubt was expressed at the Court House today that Judge Joseph F. Quinn will be sufficiently recovered to resume the trial of William J. Corcoran and seven other alleged members of the blackmail ring on Monday next, to which date it was adjourned by Judge Bishop.

Judge Quinn's condition was much more serious than at first reported. Although he is mending ruddily, many of those connected with the case fear that he will not be able to take up such an arduous assignment so soon.

Judge Bishop announced to counsel and jury in open court that Judge Quinn was eager to return to the bench and continue the trial, but said it was impossible to state at this time whether he would be in condition to proceed on the date fixed. Counsel for the defence and prosecution asked Judge Bishop to forward their sympathy and regard to Judge Quinn.

Sharp difference of opinion on the part of counsel for the prosecution and the defence as to the authority to substitute a judge in the event that Judge Quinn will be unable to resume the trial on the date set, complicates the situation. The defence is willing to have another judge assigned if Judge Quinn's recovery is prolonged, but Prosecutor Arthur D. Hill contends that under the constitution this cannot be done. It is argued by the government that the defendants cannot waive their rights on this matter.

E. A. FILENE UNVEILS BRONZE MEMORIAL

While 2,900 employes of the William Filene & Sons Company stood in silent tribute, E. A. Filene unveiled a bronze memorial to the 258 employes who served in the World War, at the Armistice Day exercises held in the store at the close of business yesterday.

As Mr. Filene named the fallen heroes, Robert H. Chapon, who served with the French army; Reginald L. Lock of the British forces and William J. Hickey of the American air service, muffled drums sounded with the blowing of taps.

The tablet bears this inscription. "In recognition of the men from this store who served in the World War, 1914 to 1919."

COX AND CURLEY GUESTS OF FETE AT HAVERHILL

Haverhill, Nov. 13.—Today was Governors' and Mayors' day in the three-day military demonstration which is being staged in this city by United States Army units. Men prominent in the New England States governments and in the national government assisted in the functions.

Mayor William D. McPhee was host, and his guests of honor were Governor Channing H. Cox, Mayor James M. Curley of Boston and Brigadier-General Andre W. Brewster, commander of the First Army Corps Area. All of the other New England governors were either present in person, or represented by members of their staffs. Congressman A. Piatt Andrews came on from Washington to speak at the luncheon which Mayor McPhee gave to his guests at noon.

At 2:30 p. m. the visiting military units, which include infantry, cavalry, artillery, tanks, signal units, chemical warfare units, etc., staged a sham battle in the stadium grounds by the Merrimac River.

The city was crowded with visitors from mid-forenoon until after the fireworks display in the evening. The streets were choked with automobiles and special traffic officers were employed at almost every street corner to aid in keeping a way open for vehicles passing through.

Band concerts at City Hall park and Washington square furnished entertainment between the military features of the day's program.

Airplanes hummed overhead all day.

Wednesday will be the final day of the demonstration. There will be a review of the troops, a cavalry drill by the Black Horse from Fort Ethan Allen, a football game between Army and Navy teams, a cross-country run and night war maneuvers.

The grand finale will be a military ball at City Hall in the evening, under the auspices of the Haverhill Post of the American Legion.

4 U. S. GUARDS HANDCUFFED BY DISTILLERY LOOTERS

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 13.—Bandits numbering about twenty-five early today raided the Gwynbrook distillery at Gwynbrook, leaving with several truckloads of whiskey. Several hours later police captured two drivers and three trucks loaded with stolen whiskey about ten miles away from the hold-up scene. Four government guards at the distillery were overpowered and handcuffed together in a circle.

WHERE'S THOSE PANTS? ERNIE CAN'T GO OUT!

Somerville has a mystery.

Where's Ernest Robinson's Sunday pants, his Sunday coat and his Sunday vest?

His wife, Evelyn, put them on the line in the rear of their home at No. 122 Josephine avenue, for an airing. They got the air—plenty. Along came a man and lifted them. He was slipping out of an alley when Mrs. Sarah Dutton, a neighbor, spied him.

She yelled to Mrs. Robinson. That lady hopped into a grocer's truck and sped down the street. In Willow avenue she collared the man, but he had not the suit. It had vanished.

Arrested and arraigned in court, he was held for the Grand Jury on a charge of larceny. He is Leslie N. Barnard of Syracuse, formerly of Somerville. Police say he is wanted in the New York city on a charge of assault and robbery.

But, in the meantime, where's Ernest Robinson's Sunday pants, his Sunday coat and his Sunday vest?

BOY SCOUTS SEARCH FOR MISSING YOUTH

Boy Scouts and police of Greater Boston are searching for eleven-year-old Edward Oswald Mahoney, of No. 365 Massachusetts avenue, who left home Sunday afternoon.

The boy, familiarly known as "Onsie," was accustomed to long hikes. Boy Scouts are searching the Hamden Woods, Newton.

He was a pupil in the Prince School.

O'MALLEY TALKS ON AFFAIRS IN EUROPE

Charles J. O'Malley entertained the members of the Brighton Institute with an illustrated lecture on the present conditions in Europe. He discussed the different phases of the political upheaval in Spain and Germany, gave a very interesting story of an auto trip over the Alps, told of visiting Switzerland, Denmark and the home of the ex-Kaiser in Holland.

TRUCKS AND ALCOHOL ARE ABANDONED

Beverly, Nov. 13.—Patrolman Regan today found two abandoned motor trucks on the lumber wharf of the J. F. Pope Lumber Company. It is believed that the men fled when they heard Regan. In one truck was found 100 gallons of alcohol. The other was loaded with empty bushel boxes used in packing vegetables.

Chief "Lightning Jack" Hayes and a squad of officers remained concealed in the lumber for some time in hope that the drivers would return for the trucks, but they did not come back.

The alcohol was probably taken from a motor boat and the boxes were to have camouflaged it on the trucks as they passed through the streets. The police are looking up the owners of the trucks and have not made public the registry numbers.

WIFE USURPED BY DOG GETS ALIMONY

STRUTHERS FAMILY OF LYNN

Mrs. Rose Struthers wins fight to compel husband, Frank L. Struthers (lower left insert), to provide separate support for herself and child, Frank L. Jr., (top left insert), because Struthers persisted in sleeping with pet dog while complaining wife to sleep in attic.

Any husband may sleep in bed with his pet dog nightly to the exclusion of his wife if he chooses, but that does not give him the right to force his wife to sleep in the attic, or to remain under the same roof, in case the wife should object to the canine usurper.

Such, in substance, is the decision of Judge White in Salem Probate Court, who awarded a decree of separate support to Mrs. Rose A. Struthers of Lynn, upon her charge that her husband slept with his pet dog and forced her to sleep in the attic.

Custody of the Struthers' minor child was awarded to the wife, subject to the supervision of Jennie M. Purchase, an agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

In addition, Judge White ordered Struthers to pay $10 weekly to Miss Purchase toward the support of his wife and child.

CHAMBERMAIDS TESTIFY FOR BROWNING

New York, Nov. 13.—Twenty affidavits made in this country and abroad, intended to support the charges made by Edward West Browning, millionaire real estate operator, have been submitted to Supreme Court Justice Davis.

Browning is attempting to obtain a divorce from the beautiful, young Mrs. Nellie Adele Browning. Meanwhile he is endeavoring to successfully oppose his wife's motion for $5,000 alimony a month pending the outcome of the suit and her plea for $25,000 for counsel fees and $15,000 for expenses. Justice Davis has the motion under consideration.

Mr. and Mrs. Browning

The affidavits are intended to support the statements of the millionaire real estate operator that his young wife left his home to travel with Charles L. Wilen, a dentist from the Bronx.

Browning is fifty years old. His wife is twenty-eight. The doctor is twenty-nine.

Affidavits made by the chambermaids of the Hotel Imperial and the Hotel Chambord in Paris identify Mrs. Browning as the woman who accompanied Dr. Wilen.

Mrs. Nellie Adele Browning, in answering affidavit, denies the statements made by the hotel employes. She denies that in her recent stay in Paris she made her home in either of these hotels.

Among the affidavits was one from a man supposed to be a friend of Dr. Wilen. He claims Mrs. Browning visited the young dentist in an apartment house in the Bronx where Dr. Wilen has an office. This man claims when Mrs. Browning was in the office the curtains were down and the doors locked. At such times, he alleges, admission to the office was refused.

Mrs. Browning protests that whenever she visited Dr. Wilen she was accompanied by her mother or someone else. She asserts that most of the affidavits submitted by her husband came from people who never knew her. They identify her solely by pictures shown them by the agents for Mr. Browning.

CHARGES INSANE PATIENTS CLUBBED

Seeks Divorce from 'Millionaire Kid'

THUGS HIRED TO BEAT UP PATIENTS

Legislator Charges Grave Abuses in the Asylums; Demands Probe of "Horrors"

Inmates of Massachusetts State institutions for the insane, sick and infirm are abused worse than cattle in the Chicago stockyards, are underfed, and such food as they receive is unfit for cats and dogs.

This is the sweeping indictment made by State Representative Michael F. Hourihan of the Roxbury district, who today filed a bill with the clerk of the House of Representatives, calling for a sweeping investigation of State institutions.

ASKS COMMISSION.

The bill provides for the appointment of a special commission of two Senators and two Representatives to investigate conditions in State institutions caring for the sick, infirm, needy and insane.

It is the first important bill to be introduced for consideration when the Legislature convenes in January. Representative Hourihan, its sponsor, is the only member of the House Committee on Legal Affairs who is not an attorney.

Representative Hourihan told the Boston American that he would call upon Governor Cox tomorrow and lay before him conditions he found existing in the hospital for the insane at Danvers and the State institutions at Waverley, Westboro and Worcester.

PATIENTS "BEATEN."

He declared he had positive information and proof that inmates of the various State institutions, especially the insane asylums, are assaulted and beaten "by attendants receiving from $20 to $25 a month in wages.

"These attendants flog the patients with bunches of keys, iron pipes, broom handles, axe handles, and other objects," he declared.

"My attention has been called to the fact that at Waverley patients have been knocked down and have been badly bruised at the hands of these brutal attendants, several of whom should themselves be patients."

He charged officials with administrative authority in the institutions with neglect of duty and difference. He declared they hire men for attendants who are non-residents of the State and in many instances who are ex-convicts.

"Some of these attendants delight in beating patients just to see blood flow," Representative Hourihan declared with a shudder as he described conditions that have been brought to his attention.

"I am going to show the people of Roxbury, whom I represent, as well as my colleagues in the House of Representatives, just what conditions exist, and I have facts and figures and positive proof to substantiate my statements.

"I defy the superintendents of these institutions to deny that these patients are being underfed and that they are receiving foods that some persons would not feed to their cats and dogs."

POLICE DOGS GUARD LIQUOR; FORMER FILCHERS ARE SAD

The boys who used to filch the government's supply of seized liquor have a requiem, sad and low, as follows:

"Dog gone it."

Seems the government recently cancelled a contract with a Boston storage house where for three years seized liquors had been stored only at times to be re-seized by mysterious persons.

So the old Pfaff brewery on Columbus avenue near Roxbury Crossing was taken over and tons of seized spirits transferred there.

"Now," said an official following the transfer, "who'll watch the watchman so's the spirits won't be spirited away?"

"I have it," said a fast-thinking dry. "Wait here."

He reappeared in an hour, leading twelve ferocious looking, man-eating German police dogs. They now patrol the brewery premises while the boys at a distance sing softly and low—

"Dog gone it."

OLD GRADS BRING LIQUOR TO COLLEGES, REGENT SAYS

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Charges that the "old grads" bring liquor to the fraternity houses of colleges and universities are made by Junius Beal, regent of the University of Michigan, here attending the meeting of the governing board members of State educational institutions.

"The alumnus is the principal cause for intemperance in our colleges, which is now one of the imperative problems that confront us," Mr. Beal said. "He brings liquor to the campus on gala days. The impressionable young student always looks upon the alumnus as a sort of godparent, and consequently accepts the invitation of the 'old grad' to 'have a little drink' as a virtual command.

"I believe the best way is to appeal to the honor of the student body and alumni on the moral issue. In Michigan, the fraternities are writing circular letters to their alumni, urging them to refrain from such violations."

BUSINESS GIRLS GO HUNGRY; NEED MONEY FOR CLOTHING

New York, Nov. 13.—A forced resistance to a beefsteak diet and not the use of cosmetics is producing the pale complexion of the New York business girl in many instances where the girl must forego proper nutrition to make ends meet on her low wage, it was revealed today at the conference of the Association to Promote Proper Housing for Girls.

"The average business girl in New York makes less than $20 a week, said Miss Cornelia Marshall, president of the organization. "The lowest priced liveable room costs at least $8 a week. She can't hold her position unless she presents a good appearance, so that any economies must come out of the money that she would ordinarily spend for food. She goes on working, goes on earning presentable clothes, and starves."

SLAIN GIRL HAD PLANNED TO END OWN LIFE

Millville, N. J., Nov. 13.—Emma Dickson, Bricksboro schoolgirl, whose body was found near her home last September with the head crushed, threatened suicide a few days before her death, "because something terrible" had happened to her, according to information made public by County Detective Lore, who has been investigating the case.

Detective Lore said that he had learned this from Erna Smiley, a fourteen-year-old school companion of the Dickson girl, a daughter of a member of the coroner's jury now holding an inquest into the death.

In the light of this information, Detective Lore expressed the opinion that someone possibly responsible for the girl's state of mind might have to put her out of the way.

The coroner's jury will sit again Thursday. If Ernesta Faccenda, held in Philadelphia in connection with the case, is extradited, he will be placed on the stand.

BANKS DUPING COOLIDGE, SAYS SEN. WHEELER

Washington, Nov. 13 (C.N.S.).—Charges that President Coolidge is being deluged with organized propaganda from the stand-pat corporation element, which is using the plight of the Western farmers to increase the tariff profits for Eastern manufacturers and bankers were made today in a statement by United States Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana.

Thomas D. Campbell, who has been urging the President not to reduce freight rates is not the successful wheat farmer that he has been advertised to be, Wheeler said.

Senator Wheeler said that Campbell, backed by J. P. Morgan, obtained large tracts of land in Montana from the Indians "for practically nothing," and that if he has been successful in selling wheat, the people of Montana will be glad to hear it. He said the interests which "have ballyhooed Campbell into prominence" care more for the railroads than for the Western farmers. He added:

"That the milling trust and the grain gamblers are leaving no stone unturned to prevent any legislation for the relief of the farmers of the wheat growing regions is manifest by the constant activity of these allied interests in broadcasting propaganda assuring the public that farmers were never in better shape than now and that all that is necessary to bring about an agricultural millennium is to raise the tariff on wheat, reduce production and maintain the present exorbitant freight rates."

DROP WARRANT FOR IMPERIAL WIZARD

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 13.—The peace warrant against Imperial Wizard H. W. Evans of the Ku Klux Klan was dismissed today by Judge T. O. Hitchcock in municipal court here after Walter Colquitt, attorney for Dr. Fred B. Johnston, chief of staff for Emperor W. J. Simmons, who swore out the warrant, asked that it be dismissed "for the best interests of all concerned."

JANITOR LEAPS 8 STORIES TO DEATH

Camden, N. J., Nov. 13 (I.N.S.).—John Wiley, forty-five, a mechanic, today leaped from a window on the eighth floor of the Victor phonograph factory, and was killed. Scores of workers saw the leap. Wiley, some months ago, lost his job as mechanic and has been janitor in the building. He told friends he intended to kill himself. He was married and had two children.

NINE TOWNS MAY LOSE CAR LINES

Middlesex-Boston Company Is Ready to Cut Service if Jit Licenses Are Refused

Unless it is given authority to acquire and operate jitneys in connection with its street railway service, the Middlesex and Boston company will be obliged to discontinue regular service in nine towns, Pitt F. Drew, president of the company, declared at a hearing before the State Department of Public Utilities today.

The company is too poor to rehabilitate its property to the extent required for the proper handling of traffic demands, he said.

NINE TOWNS AFFECTED.

The towns threatened with the loss of regular street car service are Lexington, Arlington Heights, Bedford, Billerica, Concord, South Natick, Natick, Wayland and Saxonville.

Street car business is so bad in those towns that the company asks for permission to amend its charter so that it may abandon the car line altogether and operate jitneys.

In some of the other towns the company feuld like the right to operate only portions of its tracks and cover the rest of th eterritory with busses.

DEMAND BETTER SERVICE.

This position of the company, as outlined to the Department of Public Utilities, is its answer to the flood of petitions from patrons for better service. The fare on the lines of the Middlesex & Boston is 10 cents. The patrons say it is too much, and especially so considering the service rendered. The petitions are to the effect that the company be required to furnish better and more cars, make its trackage safe and improve transportation conditions generally.

FUNERAL TOMORROW OF HENRY A. CAREY

The funeral of Henry A. Carey, of Dedham, who died suddenly, will take place tomorrow morning from No. 60 Clark street. There will be a high mass of requiem in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. He was born in Dedham Oct. 26, 1850. He is survived by his widow, a son, Henry M. Carey, two daughters, Mrs. Walter B. King of Roslindale, and Mrs. James O'Connell, Jr., of Dedham, and eight grandchildren.

SEIZE 48,000 QUARTS OF ALE IN OSWEGO

Syracuse, Nov. 13 (I.N.S.).—Forty-eight thousand quart bottles of Canadian ale, valued at $72,000, were seized in Oswego en route from the border to Cyracuse early today. More than fifty bootleggers, many identified as Syracusans, are under surveillance and wholesale arrests are forecast.

ACTS AFTER VIOLENT QUARREL

Mrs. Farnham, Once Known as "Best-Dressed Girl in Dorchester," Brings Suit

Muriel Powers, known as the "best dressed" girl in Dorchester, who married Francis M. Farnham, acclaimed in Lynn as the "millionaire kid," at Trinity Church September 1, 1921, has filed divorce papers at the Salem Probate Court, alleging cruelty and intoxication.

Mrs. Farnham, her father states, is recovering from a physical breakdown at a New York health resort, but will arrive at 219 Savin Hill Ave., Dorchester for Thanksgiving.

She is the daughter of Fred Powers of the firm of O'Gorman, Wade & Powers, 1029 Washington street, and the filing of the divorce suit was a complete surprise to her closest friends.

Farnham is the son of David Farnham, No. 91 Ocean street, Lynn, who conducts the Arcade Tire shop.

The Farnhams made their home in Swampscott up to ten days ago, they took a prominent part in many of the North Shore social events.

Their separation followed a violent altercation in "The Breakers," on Lynn boulevard, according to counsel for Mrs. Farnham.

On Nov. 8 Associate Judge Edward B. O'Brien of the Lynn district court filed suit in behalf of Mrs. Farnham, which is returnable at Newburyport on Nov. 26.

Farnham has engaged Edward F. Flynn, assistant district attorney of Essex county to contest the case.

MAYOR CAN'T SLEEP FOR DOGS; LOSES OUT

Butler, N. J., Nov. 13.—An unsympathetic town council refused to entertain Mayor John A. Farrell's ordinance for the suppression of barking dogs. Five hundred residents of Butler stood against the mayor's ordinance which would increase taxes on male dogs to $15 and $20 for female dogs. The mayor declared the town was so ridden with dogs of many varieties and species that it was impossible to sleep nights.

LOWER TAXES TO CUT COST OF LIVING

Washington, Nov. 13 (I.N.S.).—A decrease in the cost of living, all down the line from building materials, to food and clothing, will follow action by Congress in lowering taxes on incomes, government tax experts predicted today.

Secretary Mellon attributes the present high cost of living in no small measure to the high taxes on big incomes, which have driven wealth from the field of productive enterprise into tax-free securities and other non-productive fields.

Lower the surtaxes, he believes, and this wealth will be drawn from its hiding places.

While general approval has been voiced by returning Congressmen over plans for reducing income taxes it, nevertheless, becomes apparent today that Congress is going to view the Mellon plan with some "sum picion."

The Mellon program is recognized as his first assault on the soldiers' bonus, to which a great majority of both Houses and Senate are pledged.

Secretary Mellon's whole scheme of tax reduction is based on Congress not passing the bonus. It will not be possible, he contends, to both reduce taxes and pay the bonus. Thus many Congressmen are going to be caught in an embarrassing position. They are pledged to both reduction of taxes, if possible, and they are also pledged to the bonus.

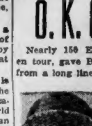
EUROPE'S 'MINE HOSTS' PUT O.K. ON HUB

Nearly 150 European hotel men, en tour, gave Boston the once over from a long line of automobiles and decided that all the good things they heard about the Hub were correct.



Miss E. M. Blair

Their opinion was epitomized by Mme. Harriet La Cour of Paris, France. "So, this eez Boston," said Mme. La Cour, her eyes sparkling, "It eez glorious magnifique."

The visitors are in this country on a tour of the big cities of the East, mingling sightseeing with a study of the big hostelries as conducted by Americans.

They arrived at the South Station on a special train from New York. The engineer entered into the spirit of hospitality by having his Mogul puff in nearly on time.

The First Corps Cadet Band serenaded the guests with "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here", as Georges Barrier of Paris, president of the International Hotel Alliance, led the Europeans in stepping from the train.

Following President Barrier were alliance delegates from Great Britain, Italy, Czecho-Slovakia, Sweden, Denmark, Egypt, Japan, Portugal,

Mr. Oscar

Mrs. Oscar

Switzerland, Holland, France, Belgium.

They were received by a committee of New England hotel men, with Charles F. Costello as general chairman. Led by the band, the visitors marched through outside the station to where 47 automobiles were awaiting them for a tour of the city, and Cambridge.

The route was kept surprisingly clear by two motor-cycle traffic officers and thousands lined sidewalks viewing the parade, their attention attracted by placards in the cars bearing the legend "Alliance Internationale de L'Hotellerie."

Miss E. M. Blair of Aberdeen, Scotland, standing with Mrs. Louis La Franche and Miss Marguerite La Franche of the Hotel Victoria, shared the opinion of Mme. La Cour that Boston is "magnifique."

Mme. Rene La Nouvel of Paris said she was beginning to miss the crowded boulevards of the French capital till her host's automobile was caught in one of Washington street's traffic jams, and then she felt more at home.

A little thing like traffic delay didn't disturb the equanimity of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar o. the Waldorf, New York, either. They thrive on traffic jams over in Manhattan. The Oscars are synonymous with Waldorf. "Just Oscar," said Mr. Oscar. "That's all of our name. That's all there is; there isn't any more."

Miss Marguerite La Franche

Mrs. La Franche

After the swing around the city and into Cambridge, the visitors were entertained at tea at the Somerset, and after that a "typical New England dinner" was served at the Copley-Plaza. There also was a supper dance at the Hotel Brunswick.

The guests leave today at 8:00 o'clock on a special Boston & Albany train for Buffalo. Their itinerary includes trips to Philadelphia, Washington, Atlantic City and a finale in New York on November 18.

The hotel men completed their convention with a dinner at the Copley Plaza. The speakers were Mayor Curley, Arthur L. Race, manager of the Copley-Plaza and president of the Hotel Men's Mutual Benefit Association; Congressman Allen T. Treadway, and Georges Barriere, president of the Alliance Internationale de l'Hotellerie.

The hotel men were later entertained by L. C. Prior at a party at the Hotel Brunswick.

Ivan Dick, Jr. Moves His Family to Hub for Winter, Says Betty Alden

LIBERTY AND JOAN DICK

Among society's future debutantes are little Liberty and Joan Dick, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Evans R. Dick, Jr. (Joan Tuckerman).

By BETTY ALDEN

THERE is considerable interest in the news that Mr. and Mrs. Evans R. Dick, Jr., will occupy Gordon Prince's town house at No. 290 Beacon street for the Winter.

The Dicks have a host of friends here, having made their home for several years in Weston shortly after they were married. Later they moved to Whitemarsh, just outside Philadelphia, where their place was known as "Willow Dam."

Mrs. Dick was formerly Miss Joan C. Tuckerman, sister of popular Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., one of the North Shore's notable sportsmen. Her two sisters are Mrs. William M. Elkins (Elisabeth Tuckerman), of Philadelphia and Mrs. G. Herman Kinnicut (May Tuckerman), of New York.

All the clan of Tuckerman are well-known along the Shore, where Mrs. Dick's mother, Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman and the late Mr. Tuckerman summered for many years. It was on the Ipswich estate of Mr. Charles B. Tuckerman that the camera man snapped little Liberty and Joan Dick, children of Mr. and Mrs. Evans Dick, Jr.

MRS. W. SCOTT FITZ, after a long season spent at her Manchester-by-the-Sea estate, has opened her town house at No. 75 Beacon street.

Members of Boston's old-time aristocracy always enjoy the delightful musicales given throughout the season by Mrs. Fitz, who is also a patron of art.

TALL and dark-haired Dorothy Powning, one of the buds of last year, will be one of the "orange girls" at the Shakespeare festival which society folk are staging on Friday evening at the Copley-Plaza.

The "orange girls," dressed in costumes such as worn by the orange girls of the old Globe Theatre of Shakespeare's time, will sell light refreshments during the festival and will lend considerable color to the affair. All society is keenly anticipating the event, and there is sure to be a large and fashionable throng at the Copley-Plaza on Friday evening.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD WHEATLAND and their two daughters, the Misses Anna and Martha Wheatland, have returned from England, where they attended the marriage of the eldest daughter of the house, Miss Lucia Wheatland, to John Farquhar Fulton.

MRS. REED P. ANTHONY (Mary Hartwell), will be one of the attendants at the wedding of Miss Dorothy Weld and Alfred Wilson Douglas, the ceremony scheduled to take place at high noon on Saturday in the Church of the Redeemer. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Winsor Weld of Chestnut Hill.

LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

This Story Will Be Shown Soon in Motion Pictures Starring Marion Davies at One of Your Favorite Theatres in Boston

THE STORY SO FAR

Larry Delavan, a fashionable young man in the days when Fulton was perfecting his steamboat in New York, expects that his stepfather will leave him his large fortune. When John Jacob Astor reads the will he discovers that all the property goes to a nephew, Patrick O'Day, in Ireland. Astor is made trustee and Larry guardian of the heir. Delavan is terribly disappointed. The O'Day family is about to be evicted from their poor home in Ireland, when a strange solicitor appears and informs them of their good fortune. Patricia, disguised as her brother, who dies on the trip, and her father, arrive in New York. Delavan becomes interested in Robert Fulton's steamboat and promises $10,000 of the expenses. It has a successful trial trip and Pat saves the boat from falling into Schuyler's hands by a bluff. Larry backs Bully Boy Brewster in a prize fight. Pat sneaks into the firehouse, but the constable orders her out.

"BREWSTER'S doing the best he can, Pitz," said Larry.

"I know that, Brewster, Mr. Hallock doesn't understand."

"It—will—all right" — said Brewster. He was a dreadful sight by now. While none of the Terror's worst blows had reached him, he had still been badly punished. Half his teeth were gone, he was bleeding at the nose and mouth; one ear was torn. A punch in the stomach was still troubling him; he was like a swimmer taken with a cramp.

"I—I'll get him yet—wearing him down— my time's coming——"

"That's the right spirit, by lad" said Larry. "Win or lose—never say die!"

But now, as Larry had feared, the level head that Brewster thus far had managed to keep, began to be shaken. The crowd was terrific. He had to face the constant menace of the crouching, snarling Terror; he had to hear the crowd, crying for his finish, mocking him as a coward, taunting him, hurling every sort of vile epithet at him for doing what he knew was the right and only thing for him to do.

He was human—and indeed a wiser man than Brewster could well have been mg. have been forgiven for beginning at last to yield to the clamor of the crowd. He began to show more daring, to expose himself more and more to the constant blows that the Terror rained on him. Once, to affect a rhinoceros- [illegible] show his supreme contempt of his rival, he dropped his arms and let Brewster rain [illegible] on it at will. And [illegible] through the ropes [illegible]

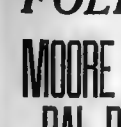
Eddie Polo, the Maine bantam, has made many friends in Lynn with his sterling performances in the Shoe City ring. It would be well for the Boston promoters to show this lad's wares before the local fans.

FOLEY AND WILLIAMS IN BATTLE OF PUNCHES AT TRIPLE A

MOORE IS CLASSY BOXER; PAL REED AFTER KAYO

By JACK CONWAY

If you wish to interest boxing fans in Boston give them local attractions. This condition has existed for years, but, unfortunately, some of the promoters have not realized it.



Red Chapman and Johnny Drew, two Massachusetts boxers, played to a capacity crowd at Mechanics Building the other night. You will find another bulky audience on hand when Harry Foley of the North End and Eddie Williams of East Boston mingle in the feature ring season affair at the Army A. A.'s show at the Grand Opera House tonight. Foley and Williams are classed with the best of the New England lightweights. They have youth, real ring ability and the desire to batter their way up the pugilistic heights. Consequently you will get plenty of action this p. m.

It will be the second meeting between these rivals, in their last bout Williams won the decision. It was a hard, close fight. Since then Foley has been winning steadily and may go to the post a favorite. In his last start the North Ender won over Willie Corbett. Red Slotkin informs us Harry is in the best possible condition and that he will try to score with a knockout.

MARCO AND REED CLASH IN THE SEMI-FINAL.

Sammy Marco of Montreal, a good card in Canada, will have Jimmy Reed of Brockton as an opponent in the semi-final of eight rounds. Marco is also under the management of Red Stoller. He is a heavy puncher and classy boxer, but will find plenty of opposition when he collides with Reed.

There will also be two eights. Wop Manolian of Dorchester will take on George Allen of Malden, while Joe Donovan of South Boston will tackle Young Rector of the North End.

TED MOORE NOT DODGING THE TOUGH FELLOWS

Ted Moore, English middleweight, is not dodging the tough men in the dear old Eagle game. In agreeing to battle Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia at the Farwell A. C.'s show at Mechanics Building tomorrow night, Moore is showing real fighting spirit. Loughran is one of America's leading 165 pounders. He has clashed with Mike McTigue, Harry Greb and most of the other star men of his weight. He recently was awarded a decision over Greb in Boston, though this writer figured the Pittsburgh man was entitled to the verdict.

Loughran is a strong, rangy fellow with considerable boxing ability. He will prove whether Moore is another Ted (Kid) Lewis or just ordinary.

CHARLESTOWN FANS WILL GIVE SUPPORT TO REED.

This boxing game is a queer thing. Johnny Wilson, who clashes with Pal Reed at the Suffolk A. A.'s show at the Boston Arena on Friday night, received his opportunity to battle Mike O'Dowd for the title chiefly through the efforts of members of the Morning Glories of Charlestown. As middleweight champion, Wilson lost favor with the fans in Charlestown. Johnny puts the blame on his former friends whom, he claims, asked too much of him. Over in the Bunker Hill district the former title-holder is considered an ingrate. The chief break came when Harry Kelly, Wilson's trainer when he held the title, quit the conqueror of O'Dowd prior to the Robinson match.

This only seemed to give Wilson more fighting spirit, for he stepped in and gave Robinson a decisive defeat. Johnny showed better in that contest than he has at any time during his career. The Wilson of today is a 100 per cent. improved fighter over the one who held the middleweight crown.

Wilson, however, has failed to win back the support of the Charlestown fans. They rooted for Robinson and will be out to cheer Reed on Friday night. They would like to see Johnny knocked out, and they have an idea that one of Pal's hefty port-side socks may accomplish this result.

JOE MANDELL AND LEONARD ARE SEEKING RING ACTION

Solly Snyder informs us that Joe Mandell, one of the world's leading junior lightweights, and Johnny Leonard of Allentown, Pa., are prepared to show their ability before New England fans. Mandell recently gave Lou Paluso a tough battle at Portland, scoring a knockdown in the final session. A broken hand forced Joe to take a layoff after that match. He's now back in condition.

Leonard has engaged in some good bouts hereabouts. At Lynn a few weeks ago he defeated Sailor Byron, New England lightweight champion.

Byron's Title is Not At Stake in Go This Evening

Sailor Byron, New England lightweight champion, will oppose Scoops White in a ten-round bout at Worcester tonight. Mike Criss informs the Boston American that Byron's title will not be at stake as the match is at 140 pounds. Mike says this is the lowest weight White can make. White recently lost a close decision to Tommy Leahy at Worcester, and it is figured by many that he should defeat Byron this p. m.

Swanees After Games

The Swanees are ready to meet any fast basketball team in New England at 120-125 pounds. Would like to obtain games as soon as possible. Arrangements may be made through Manager Roy Costello, No. 149 Chester avenue, Chelsea, telephone 1618 M.

Boston College Boy a Star Amateur

JOE MINEHAN

JOE MINEHAN SENSATION OF AMATEUR BOXING

Given up for dead after he was struck by an automobile, in which accident both arms and both legs were broken, Joe Minehan, Boston College student, today is hailed as one of the greatest amateur boxers ever developed in New England.

Minehan will be one of the star glove wielders at the pre-Olympic tri-city amateur boxing tournament at the Arena Thursday night when the Boston boxers will clash with New Haven and New York.

Minehan is the sensation of the boxing season. He is one of the greatest drawing cards in the history of simon pure boxing in this city, and it is almost a certainty that he will be selected as one of the United States boxers in the Olympics at Paris next year.

Minehan was injured in the auto crash in 1912. The accident took place in front of the Tremont Building and he was rushed to the hospital. With both arms and legs broken, Minehan, who was only eight years old, was almost given up for dead. Only the efforts of Dr. Brickley, a well-known Boston specialist, saved his life.

Although he is only nineteen years old, Minehan has thrilled all the old timers who have seen him in action. This is his first year in the ring and none of his opponents has gone the limit with him.

He never has been forced to await the decisions of judges and referees. He takes matters into his own hands early and ends the battles with K. O. wallops.

Minehan looks anything but the fierce K. O. puncher he is. He is a student at Boston College and spends most of his time with his books at his home in Charlestown.

Although Minehan has come to the front in boxing he always has been regarded as a natural athlete. He is a brilliant swimmer. He has a reputation in school athletics as a basketball player.

It was his work for B. C. H. S. over the Eagles their first basketball victory over Holy Cross it [illegible] while Joe's work lost [illegible] the first time in history of [illegible] ball at B. C.

Minehan is also a star football player. He played with the [illegible] town Bears and was considered a mighty shifty back.

The latest boxing sensation was born on McLean street, in the West End. He went to the Warren Grammar School, Charlestown; Boston College High, and now attends B. C.

Minehan is sure to start against the New Haven and New York boys.

COLBY DEFEATS BATES BY A 9-6 SCORE

Waterville, Me., Nov. 13.—Colby defeated Bates, 9 to 6, and won the state college championship. Each team scored a touchdown. Ben Soule's field goal from a 35-yard drop kick gave the Colby the extra three points that gave the victory.

Bill Millett, the Colby fullback crashed through the strong Bates line in the first two minutes of play in the second period and carried the pigskin over for the Colby's touchdown.

Bates' touchdown was made via a forward pass, Kempton to Woodman in the second period.

Captain Heinie Burckel of Colby played his last State series game and was the mainstay of the Colby line. Moynihan, Colby tackle, also starred.

Millett's sensational play earned the All-Maine fullback position.

Woodman and Captain Scott and Kempton were the stars for Bates. C. Ray, Bates sterling halfback, was injured early in the game.

DARTMOUTH TO USE RESERVES WITH COLBY

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 13.—All the Dartmouth players who played in the Brown game Saturday took a day off and journeyed to Mel Adams's cabin for a steak supper.

Roy Kelley and Ed Duffy, substitute centre were forced to remain in town. Kelley, Calder's successor, had an X-ray examination for his twisted ankle, and although no broken bones were revealed, physicians hold little hope that he will be able to return to the game before the end of the season.

Ed Duffy

Duffy is interned in the hospital with an infected leg, but his condition is not serious enough to keep him from the game more than a week.

In the absence of Coach Hawley, who will return tomorrow, Coaches Connell and McAuliffe lined up the second and third teams for a regular game. The second team won, 19 to 18.

With the Colby game scheduled for Saturday, Hawley will work Maloney at right end, Hall at left half, and Parker will take Hatch's place until the former recovers from a strained ankle.

HARVARD TO PLAY OLD FOOTBALL WITH BROWN

Harvard rested on the laurels it gained when they tied knots in the Tiger's tail, and celebrated the first practice by a soft workout. There was no hard work nor pounding scrimmage, but rather an easy session of dummy scrimmage followed by a speedy grass drill to loosen the kinks.

Coburn, Cheek, McGlone, Cordingley, Lee and Lockwood, were there with limps. Which was equally true of Dunkerly Eastman, Greenough, Combs, Hill and Hobson. All had been battered.

McGlone, Coburn and Jenkins are on the hospital list. They were the most seriously injured in the game and their recovery before the Brown battle is a matter for speculation. That Jenkins will not start in the lineup is practically certain, for his leg is in bad condition. Coburn received a terrific battering. Cordingley was shaken up, but a few days will make him sound.

Hammond is in fine shape. He did not enter a play during the game. It was a lucky thing, for with Jenkins out of the lineup, an injury to Hammond would have left the Crimson without a kicker.

Line play by the Crimson must be spruced up. Harvard gained little yardage on rush from the scrimmage. The line at times failed to open, although most of Cheek's and Jenkins' runs were made through splendid holes and behind fine interference.

However, there is much work to be done before Harvard can hope to trounce Yale and most of it must be concentrated on the line.

Brown has a strong team with a powerful, well-knit line that coordinates with a smooth-working and smooth-running backfield. It has a strong attack and a tight defense. It took a last minute rally for Dartmouth to win, and it is remembered that Darthmouth walloped Harvard.

The Bears swear they will beat Harvard, and makes the game the objective. A fine game looms. Harvard will rely on old-fashioned football to win, and save the strategic moves for the Yale game.

EAGLE SENIORS WIN INTER-CLASS BATTLE

The Seniors squeezed out a 7-6 victory against the Junior team evelen in the first of a series of interclass contests at Boston College.

The play of McIntire of the seniors and of Haley and Flynn of the Juniors excelled.

The younger class scored first when McIntire fumbled a punt behind the goal line and Haley recovered.

In the second half, after a series of fumbles had given the Seniors the ball on the 20 yard line, a forward pass, McIntire to Sullivan, resulted in a tally. McIntire then added the point that won by a drop kick which barely floated over the cross bar.

John F. Monahan and William Arthur Reilly, presidents of the two classes, led the rival cheering sections in eccentric and extraordinary style.

HARVARD LINE NEEDS CONDITIONING.

Though Harvard fans may gloat over Saturday's victory, Coach Bob Fisher has much to do in building up the Harvard line. The Brown team showed remarkably well in this respect against the strong Dartmouth defence.

DEAL WITH GIANTS MAKES BANCROFT MANAGER OF BRAVES

MITCHELL GIVES UP POSITION

By NICK FLATLEY.

Dave Bancroft, the Giants shortstop, has been appointed manager of the Braves. He will succeed Fred Mitchell, who has resigned.

Bancroft comes to the Braves in a deal that sends Captain "Billy" Southworth and Pitcher "Joe" Oeschger to the Giants in exchange for Bancroft, "Casey" Stengel and Cunningham.

Bancroft will play shortstop and be captain-manger of the Braves. Stengel and Cunningham will play outfield positions.

Many fans consider it is a good trade for the Braves, who get three players for two, but it is not a bad trade for the Giants for it gives McGraw strength in the box where he needs it. Oeschger is a strong, clever pitcher who is capable of good work and with a strong team such as the Giants behind him, should win his share of games for the New York club next season.

FOOD FOR DISCUSSION.

The trade, made on the eve of McGraw's departure for Europe is sure to cause much discussion in local baseball circles.

McGraw said he made it to satisfy Bancroft's ambition to become a big league manager and to help President Christy Mathewson of the Braves.

Bancroft is tickled at the chance to become a leader, for he realized that when McGraw said he would trade anybody on his team except Frisch, Travis, Jackson and Bill Young he was doomed to go sooner or later. Jackson is sure to play shortstop for the Giants next season.

The trade will give the Boston club a first class shortstop and strength in the outfield where it is needed. The half way position between second and third bases was weak all through the season closed recently.

McGRAW DESPERATE.

Bancroft made the Philadelphia team a champion in 1915 for Manager "Pat" Moran, and is one of the best at the position.

Incidentally, the trade disposes of the rumor that Kid Gleason would be the Braves manager.

The defeat suffered by the Giants in the Worlds Series made McGraw desperate for it made him realize some of his stars are on the toboggan.

The official statement from President Christy Mathewson and Vice-President Emil Fuchs of the Braves follows:

BRAVES' STATEMENT.

"Seldom is there any great improvement accomplished without themselves.

some sacrifice. We regret the loss of the services of our manager,

Dave Bancroft 'Casey' Stengel

Fred Mitchell, by resignation, and we join his many friends in wishing him the best of luck and the success which a man of his sterling character and conscientious devotion to duty deserves.

"After weeks of conference with the officials of practically every National League Club we decided on a trade. While including the sacrifice of the services of so hard a worker, so able and worthy a player as Billy Southworth, his conduct and devotion a credit to the national game, and the transfer of that manly, wholesome character, Joe Oeschger, whose failure to win for us was not a want of honest effort, we feel our efforts to re-establish a winning and high class ball club for Boston is greatly aided in our securing the services of such experienced leaders of the positions in professional baseball as David Bancroft, Charles D. (Casey) Stengel and Wm. A. Cunningham. Their reputations and records speak for

ECKSTEIN OF BROWN IN CIRCLE—SHELDON OF BROWN

Bill Mallory

Jones is satisfied that the Maryland game proved that because of changes in the lineup the Yale team could not function in a unit and the Eli warriors will scrimmage till the cows come home. He will send his charges through the mill every day either in dummy scrimmage or the real give and take.

None of the Yale players is on the injured list, which promises fair for a rollicking pow-wow Saturday. Yale is anxious to make up for the defeat last year.

Mallory and Stevens are the only players who have minor injuries. Both suffered cuts about the face in the set-to with the Orioles. Milstead is in uniform and though he suffers from an injured toe, will be there to flash his All-America form against the Tigers.

Jones' plan follows a long campaign. He developed two sets of superb whirlwind backs. He sends the weaker set in for the first half and then displaces them with a better set in the second half.

This was the method used in the Brown, Army and Maryland games and it will be interesting to watch it work out with Princeton.

Betting has taken on a serious aspect with odds being given on Yale at ten to seven.

YALE FAVORITE OVER TIGERS, 10 TO 7

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 13.—Yale has settled down to an arduous week of scrimmage. Coach Jones is determined to play a team that can work together with any combination that may be necessary and thus bring into play the tremendous reserve strength of Yale on the line backfield.

WILSON TO GET ANOTHER BOUT WITH GREB

Johnny Wilson will probably be signed to battle Harry Greb in New York next month or in January, writes Frank Marlow, manager of the former middleweight champion who has been in training at the Pal Reed of Natick in the feature bout of ten rounds at the Suffolk A. A's show at the Boston Arena on Friday night. Marlow confirmed

Johnny Wilson

Wilson's health farm at Summit N. J. is in even better condition than he was when he won over George Robinson and would be ready to dispose of Reed. Wilson's showing against Robinson and prior to Jack Britton and others that he has been transformed into a fighting fool.

Hickeard wants Wilson for a bout with Greb. Of course we're willing. We are so confident of victory that Greb can have all of the purse if he'll just set on the matter of agreement. It looks as though the bout will go on in December or January at the latest.

"Wilson plans to fight Reed from the bell. He wants to win over Pal decisively on account of the close bout they had before Johnny defeated Mike O'Dowd."

There is tremendous interest in this match and it is expected the Arena will be jammed on Friday night. The Suffolk A. A's office at No. 302 Washington street reports there are still plenty of choice reservations left.

MOORE PROVES HE'S REGULAR FIGHTER

Ted Moore, the British middleweight matched to meet Tommy Loughran, who beat Harry Greb here, tomorrow night in Mechanics Building, had a sensational victory in his first American fight at Syracuse, when he knocked out Nick Volpette in five rounds. The Britisher toyed with the big, rough, tough Irish heavyweight, who was never before beaten.

Syracuse critics pronounced Moore as the most sensational middleweight they have seen in years. He was immediately matched to fight Young Fisher, a Syracuse scrapper who has decisioned Johnny Wilson, Mike O'Dowd and Soldier Bartfield.

Tom O'Rourke is wildly enthusiastic over his new importation. His wonderful cleverness, speed and judgment shown against Volpette proved to O'Rourke's satisfaction that he was even more brilliant a fighter than his record discloses.

Moore was to get here today with O'Rourke and plans to finish up his training at Kelly and Haley's gymnasium in Bowdoin square. Loughran and his manager will arrive later.

VERMONT WINS FROM MIDDLEBURY, 13 TO 0

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 12.—Vermont defeated Middlebury here today, 13 to 0, and won the football championship of the State for the third year in succession. On Saturday Vermont won from Norwich, 34 to 0.

Today's two touchdowns resulted from forward passes, Capt. Semansky going over for one and Eastburn for the other. The game was one of the roughest ever played here and five players were carried off the field with injuries.

SCHOENDORF BEATEN BY A BAD DECISION

At the Casino A. C., Lynn, Jack Schoendorf, Milwaukee welterweight, lost to Vic Hirsh of Malden, Mass., in one of the best ten round bouts ever staged in this city.

Schoendorf led in seven of the ten rounds and when the decision went to Hirsh the crowd hooted for 20 minutes.

Afterwards they were matched to box at the same club in two weeks.

STEPHENSON WILL BE CAPTAIN AT WILLIAMS

Williamstown, Nov. 13.—The Williams hockey team will be captained by John Stephenson, of Duluth, Minn., a member of the senior class, who is a veteran of three years. He is a brother of "Bill" Stephenson, last year's leader.

BEEBE OF WILLIAMS GOES TO HIS HOME

Middletown, Conn., Nov. 13.—Robert Beebe, the Williams varsity backfielder, who was carried from the field in helpless condition during the Wesleyan game Saturday afternoon, was subsequently rushed to the Middlesex Hospital, where it was found he had suffered a slight concussion of the brain.

He is the son of Herbert Beebe of Pawtucket, R. I. The injured man recovered and went home with his father. The doctors say he will suffer no ill effects.

St. Jean, New Western Cue Star, To Play Greenleaf

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—Andrew St. Jean of Minneapolis, will be the next challenger for Ralph Greenleaf a world's pocket billiard title to appear in Philadelphia. He will take on the champion, who is representing Philadelphia, at the Hudson Recreation Academy in four 100-block matches on the afternoon and evenings of November 19 and 20.

St. Jean at present appears to be the most dangerous of Greenleaf's opponents in the championship now in progress in fifteen cities.

While St. Jean is a youngster a player of the new school, he has met a lot of the veterans and seasoned has returned a winner. In exhibition matches it has been not unusual for St. Jean to click off high runs of 100. His record is 212, which is some record.

St. Jean, who is a Western lad has appeared in exhibition matches in the East before, but has given all the Hudson pastors will be his first in championship competition.

Greenleaf, after winning from three of his opponents in the present tournament in Philadelphia left here to go on the road. He will be busy in several of the other cities in the circuit and will not have old enough any time when he returns here November 19.

The champion is playing brilliantly, and his constituents are confident that he will have no trouble retaining his championship. St. Jean is about the only man, from present indications, who looks as if he might upset the dope.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

When you read the life story of some noted leader or an account of some conspicuously successful enterprise, you don't want to be told over and over again merely that hard work and honesty were responsible. You want, do you not, to have the story get down to brass tacks and furnish particulars, not copybook generalities?

While in Seattle recently, I was impressed by one store which had a front of well over a hundred yards. My interest was aroused. How had it attained such dimensions, I asked myself? Had it grown from an acorn? If so, how and why?

I took the trouble to find out. I explained that I didn't want to be told simply that they sold good merchandise at attractive prices, and extended courtesy and service to patrons. I said, "tell me a few of the specific things you have done?"

What I wormed out of one of the executives, F. McL. Radford, will interest not only every merchant, but business man, as well as young men who are ambitious to make some mark in life

Read this summary:

Like most of the big Western stores, the Bon Marche of Seattle started on a very small scale. Leonard Nordhoff, his wife, and two babies came to Seattle from Chicago in 1890, with $1,200 of savings—and unbounded confidence in the future of the West. Unable to get a job, he started in a store on First Avenue. Soon he had earned $1,000. He had also demonstrating that he could succeed and so began to save. Though the founder has passed away, the business goes on. President R. L. Nordhoff, son and brother of the founder, have stuck pretty closely to these two ideas ever since. Today the store is the third or fourth largest in the United States selling entirely for cash.

One big program of the department store today is the increasing cost of doing business—how to cut that down without reducing salaries or impairing service.

This store is a hard one to beat, being 300 feet deep and 118 feet wide. Coal was high and getting higher. Experiments with sawdust didn't work. So they built (with the just sawdust, only coarser) was tried. Now more heat is furnished for $2,500 a year less.

Delivery cost 19½ cents, costing twenty cents a package and threatened to go higher. The matter was taken up with other merchants, and two other big stores as well as about one hundred of the little fellows decided to come along; so the Merchants' Delivery Company was started. Packages now cost 12 cents to deliver instead of 20 cents, and the service is just as good.

Laundry bills were running high, so a laundry was set up in the establishment. Result. Twenty-five per cent. saved on laundry bills and waitresses' uniforms and table cloths have lasted almost twice as long, because more care was taken with mending.

"We try to do things just a bit differently from the other fellow," said Mr. Radford. "Some times we knock the ball over the fence; some times we fan out. Among the things we have gone over is a textile testing service. Through an arrangement with the University of Washington, all our textiles are tested and we show customer exactly what the material is made of. This also enables us to be absolutely accurate in advertising our goods.

"Our Pacific Northwest products exhibit, held every February, is a big success. We give up our whole fourth floor to exhibits of locally made goods, making no charge for the space, and have prominent citizens give talks on the advantages of buying locally made goods. On one occasion eleven thousand people visited this exhibit last February.

"Our baby [illegible] years ago, has grown to be a big affair [illegible] Business Men's Council [illegible] of the city. It has accomplished wonderful things for the merchants of Seattle. As many as 4,000 babies have been examined in a single day.

Five Billion for Irrigation--Why Not?

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

Somebody is shocked because the advocates of irrigation by the national government suggest spending five billions within a few years putting water on dry, desert land. One brilliant paragraph writer says:

"Only five billions! The national irrigators are too shy. Make it a hundred!"

Yes, make it a hundred billions, by all means, if that amount is required for irrigation, and if the country in the centuries ahead can spare it—which it can.

No money can be spent more wisely than the money spent to supply water, fertility and crops to soil dry and useless without the water.

Five billions seems like a good deal of money, but it isn't very much IF IT IS WELL SPENT. The nation that can talk glibly about piling up battleships, instruments of death, at ten millions apiece; the nation that can give that fortune of a thousand millions to an individual—CAN WELL AFFORD TO SPEND BILLIONS ON IRRIGATION, WHICH IS THE IMPROVEMENT OF THE EARTH.

The greatest source of wealth that we know IS WATER. The water is drawn up from the salt ocean, scattered over the land by the clouds. The rain pours into the great lakes. And this water, worth many times five billions, rushes out into the ocean, where it is lost, taking with it through the mouth of the Mississippi and other great rivers the valuable soil worth many millions more.

Before the waters of our lakes and rivers run back to the ocean human ingenuity should take all that is needed to scatter over the dry fields. Even the fields that we call fertile need more water, and ought to have it.

The hay crop of this country could be doubled, without extra labor or expense, if there were water unlimited for the growing of grass.

Farmers impoverish themselves paying thirty and forty dollars a ton for fertilizer. But the fertilizer without the water is useless, and with irrigation the water would not cost half a cent a ton.

When the government spends its millions and billions on irrigation it will be doing the REAL WORK of the human race on this earth. Our work here is to develop the earth, make it into a beautiful park, fertile, every inch irrigated and cultivated—a park in which human beings may live together in peace and plenty, in harmony and friendship.

This work is going to be done, and the advocates of irrigation help it along. The day will come when not a dollar will be spent for a rifle, a bullet, a battleship or a lawyer. Emulation will replace competition everywhere. Contests between men will be contests of the mind, each struggling, not to help himself, but to help the whole of humanity by adding to the wealth and knowledge of the race.

This rich country, with its great lakes, its enormous fortunes, its vast tracts of land that need irrigation, and that will repay irrigation with ten dollars for one, ought to lead in the task of beautifying this earth.

The Returned Immigrant

Some Things Would Surprise Him

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

Thousands of European immigrants are sent back when the quota is exhausted. Pretty tough for the fellow who slaves and saves to take the westward ship and from his steerage window looks at last upon the gateway of the better land.

Just as new life dawns, the door of hope slams in his face, and he goes back to despair.

He feels as does the war prisoner who breaks the bars and hides and starves and crawls until he sees his comrades in the distance. Then a breaking twig betrays him and captors cover him with rifles.

If as this dejected immigrant goes down the harbor he should see a lot of Americans committing suicide, he would think them very strange.

And if he should see American statesmen trying to chain this country to the continent of hate and hunger he would thing them stranger still.

Give Navy Yards a Chance

Governor Cox Wisely Trying to Secure Fair Treatment for Employes at Boston

Governor Cox is wisely trying to secure "fair treatment" for the employes of the Boston Navy Yard. He has written a letter to Chairman Farley of the U. S. Shipping Board asking for an extension of time in order that the estimates on the reconditioning of certain ships may be completed by the Boston Navy Yard.

We are at a loss to understand why it was necessary for the Governor to interfere. But apparently it was necessary, and we congratulate the Governor upon his prompt interference.

It ought to be the object of our Shipping Board to give the navy yard every chance in the world to make estimates and to obtain the chance to recondition all the ships it can.

The Governor calls attention to the law and warns the Shipping Board that Congress had to intervene to correct a previous policy of the Shipping Board to award contracts for government work to private corporations. By that law Congress insisted that the Shipping Board should give a reasonable opportunity to the navy yards to do the work.

We call the attention of our members of Congress to this situation.

Veterans' Bureau Probe

Senator Walsh Hopes It Will Result in Requiring Congressmen and Politicians to Keep Their Hands Off

Senator Walsh makes a very just attack upon the management of the Veterans' Bureau, and he also makes an obvious suggestion when he says:

The one hope of this investigation is that it will result in the forming of a public opinion that will require Congressmen and politicians to keep their hands off; to prevent intriguing and trickery on the part of the employes, and to obtain a square deal for the ex-service men.

Senator Walsh declares he is going to ask that Congress put the whole bureau under Civil Service. He will make no mistake if he fights to have this done."

PLANE WITH WINGS OF WOOD

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 13.—A new type of monoplane, with wooden wings, the design of Fokker, famous Dutch aeroplane designer, has just undergone successful tests here.

The machine has a huge single wing span of nearly a hundred feet, and is several feet thick in the centre. Although only driven by one engine the aeroplane can carry ten people at a speed approaching 180 miles per hour.

True Recognition

Editor Boston American:

Life doesn't seem so cruel after all, especially when one reads how William Lovett, the bad man, was buried with military honors by World War veterans. It is one of those rare, but beautiful, incidents in which the world is willing to forget the faults of a man who, when his country called, went forth and became a real hero.

Only Just Enough to Eat

Editor Helping Hand:

I wonder if you could help me just a little. My husband has been sick since the first of the year with an incurable disease. I have been out working helping to support our five children and ourselves, but now I am all tired out, and I go out working just one day a week. I get ten dollars from the city. We just get enough to eat, and that is about all. Three of my children go to school. The oldest is fourteen, a girl, and takes size sixteen. The boys take sizes twelve, nine and seven years. If anyone has any cast-off clothing for them I would be very thankful, or any bedclothes, such as sheets and spreads, as I have not got any. I would do housework in return. Hope I have not asked for too much.

MRS. J. H. C.

Gives Kitchen Range

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a good kitchen range that might be useful to someone in need. They can have it by calling for it.

MRS. J. N. 2.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. B. P., who will be grateful for it.

Coat and Dresses

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a good warm coat, size 40, and one or two dress skirts for someone who could use them.

MRS. H. D. S.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mary Esther who asked for clothing for her mother.

Offers to Deliver Gifts

Editor Helping Hand:

In your column I notice that there are sometimes rather bulky articles given or asked for. I have a small truck, one-ton capacity, that I will be able to spare in the evenings for the next six weeks and will gladly do the expressing within Greater Boston of these articles without charge.

I. P. C.

This is a mighty helpful offer, as there have been many times when we needed such assistance. Many thanks indeed.

Needs Winter Coat

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there some kindly disposed woman who could give me a Winter coat and a one-piece Winter dress of quiet color, size 38 or 40? I am five feet tall and middle aged, and have been an invalid for years. Just now I could attend church sometimes if I had suitable clothing.

MRS. B. S. 2.

Fire Destroyed Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a widow and had a very bad stroke of luck recently. Last Sunday the house where I had a room burned down and I am without a thing to wear except what some kind friend let me take until I could get more. If there is some kind reader who would give me a black coat, size 44 or 42, it would be very helpful to me. I am tall.

MRS. A. G. 6.

Almost Destitute

Editor Helping Hand:

My husband is in the hospital, and has been there for three months with typhoid pneumonia. I am only twenty-two years old, and am living with my poor mother, as I had to break up housekeeping. I have three children, a boy four, a boy three and a girl one year old in December. If there is any clothing that someone has to help them along, I would be very grateful. I can't let the boys out, as they haven't even a sweater. Also if there was some one who could give me clothes also 34 or 36 and shoes size four and a half, it would be appreciated, as I am almost destitute.

MRS. M. H. 3.

Clothing Needed

Editor Helping Hand:

I am the mother of a child, one year and eight months old, and I have been ill ever since the baby was born. My husband left me on my sick bed and I am with my mother now, who is a widow, and we find it pretty hard to get clothing. My mother is the only one working, of course, and she does housework and gets very low wages. Now if some kind person could send me the following articles, I would be very much obliged: A one-piece dress for me, size 40, some underclothing, a good warm coat, and clothing for the baby, such as rompers, sweater and underwear.

MRS. W. E. D.

Made Them Happy

Editor Helping Hand:

A few weeks ago I appealed to you for aid and have received more than I asked for. I have clothes for my coming baby as well as for myself and my year-old baby. Also a crib and mattress which I could never have bought. Nobody knows, unless they have been faced with such things. You have made us all happy and I have new courage to go on.

CHRISTMAS BASKET FUND

You who have followed the Helping Hand in its more than a year of existence know better than others the suffering that constantly exists about us. Those of you who could, have shown that you know it by your unstinted help and encouragement.

Because, then, we know you have an understanding heart, the Helping Hand Editor wishes to call your attention to the Christmas Basket Fund which, with your help, will provide a Christmas dinner for many thousands of families who would otherwise find the Yuletide pretty cheerless. Details of the fund will be found on an inside page of this paper.

WHO SAID THAT WE'RE EFFICIENT PEOPLE?

By Herbert Kaufman

ONE apple orchard at Walla Walla, Washington, has packed 200,000 crates of selected fruit this season.

Fifty years ago there wasn't an apple tree in the country.

But, instead of congratulating ourselves on the development of such projects within a single generation, let's frown, instead, at the sight of 75,000 boxes of sound primes still on the limbs, left there because they won't pay for the picking, not to mention an even greater tonnage of rotting culls and misshapes that cover the ground farther than eye can reach.

Thrifty Pennsylvania Dutchmen would turn the surplus crop into apple butter or dry it or press the juice for cider and vinegar.

New England shrewdness would pulp or blend the overproduction and supply insatiate market with popular-priced, canned apple sauce or pailed jellies.

Middling-sized Jonathans are selling from 30c to 50c a dozen east of the Mississippi and under a dollar a box on the coast, only because the grower has no means to conserve or utilize his entire yield.

Thus, inefficiency gouges one-half of America at the retail counter and robs the other half at sources of supply.

Thus, shortage plays profiteer in consumption centres and surfeit provokes mortgages through agricultural districts.

Two Birds at One Lick

We can kill two economic birds at one lick, simultaneously increase the purchasing power of city dollars and the earning capacity of rural land only by diversifying the farmer's markets as well as his crops.

Pacific States must have proper facilities before we may have access to the enormous quantities of edibles regularly ungathered or pitched away because there are no existing means of conserving or concentrating plusage for the grocer's waiting shelves.

The Northwest has invested its means and energies in primary developments.

It has reclaimed the barrens, created granaries, built up milk herds, planted orchards and berry patches, provided financial and commercial machinery, electrified all arable acreage, surveyed and paved the transcontinental highways and connected villages thereto with perfect tributary roads.

A thousand dams sparkle with electric lights and hold current sufficient for the indefinite requirements of industry.

The promise of the pioneer's ax has been faithfully kept by an immediately following generation.

Our Frontiers Canaan a la Manhattan Are Gone

Trim, inclusive, little villages, with primary and high schools, department stores, waterworks and service stations, surgeons, dentists, theatres, saving banks, pharmacies and specialty shops, sewerage systems and newspapers, recreation parks and ball grounds, line the Oregon trial.

The farthest outlying ranch is under an hour's automobile distance from pert, gay trading community.

Ubiquitous motor cars and telephones have driven isolation from local lexicons.

The rough work is done; the risks have been taken: the settlers suffered the hardships. Their children have fulfilled the brave dream of wilderness clearance and brought the ultimate improvements of civilization across the Rockies Lands of Canaan, full of virgin opportunities plus social convenience and metropolitan trimmings.

More Than They Can Chew

The territory is too rich, too vast for management by the handful of people who hold it. Fifty times present population can be accommodated there without inflating values to Mississippi Valley levels.

The man on the "Covered Wagon" was a gambler, a speculator, pitting his thews and sinews against possibilities.

Myriads, whom necessity and the main chance shall drive toward the Pacific from now onward, will ride behind electric mules and, wherever they alight, discover customary comfort and convenience waiting on the station platform.

The third and final phase of Northwestern history is at hand.

Foundations are laid. Nothing remains but to add and occupy extra stories.

Cheap structural materials, power and supplies limitlessly available for preserving plants in orchard or country, creameries and dairies in stock-raising districts, and current are at the back doors of future furniture and box factories, exhaustless rock, free for the asking on the Transpacific docks and transcontinental rails; read cement quotations and heed beckoning fortune.

From Backwoods to Foreground

You can build a general merchandise store, own it and fill its shelves for the annual rental of a second story bootery or clothes shop on upper Broadway or State street.

Merchant princes start in hamlets and end on Fifth avenue and in the Loop.

Marshall Field and his partners brought their experience from the cross-roads. The Gimbels learned to hit the ball in the bush league of commerce.

U. S. Steel is a combination of Carnegie works with foundries and furnaces that grew like Jack's beanstalk on just such ground as Washington, and Oregon, Idaho and Montana offer ambitious young skill and a modest bank account.

Nation expansion compels the continuous shifting of industrial foci.

When clay is exhausted the brickyard moves on.

When the haul from the forest to the saw wipes out dividends, equipment migrates.

Trace the history of eight per cent. of our millionaires and the trail runs to the backwoods.

The brobdingnagian features in American life are products of once Lilliputian towns, with rock-ribs in natural larders.

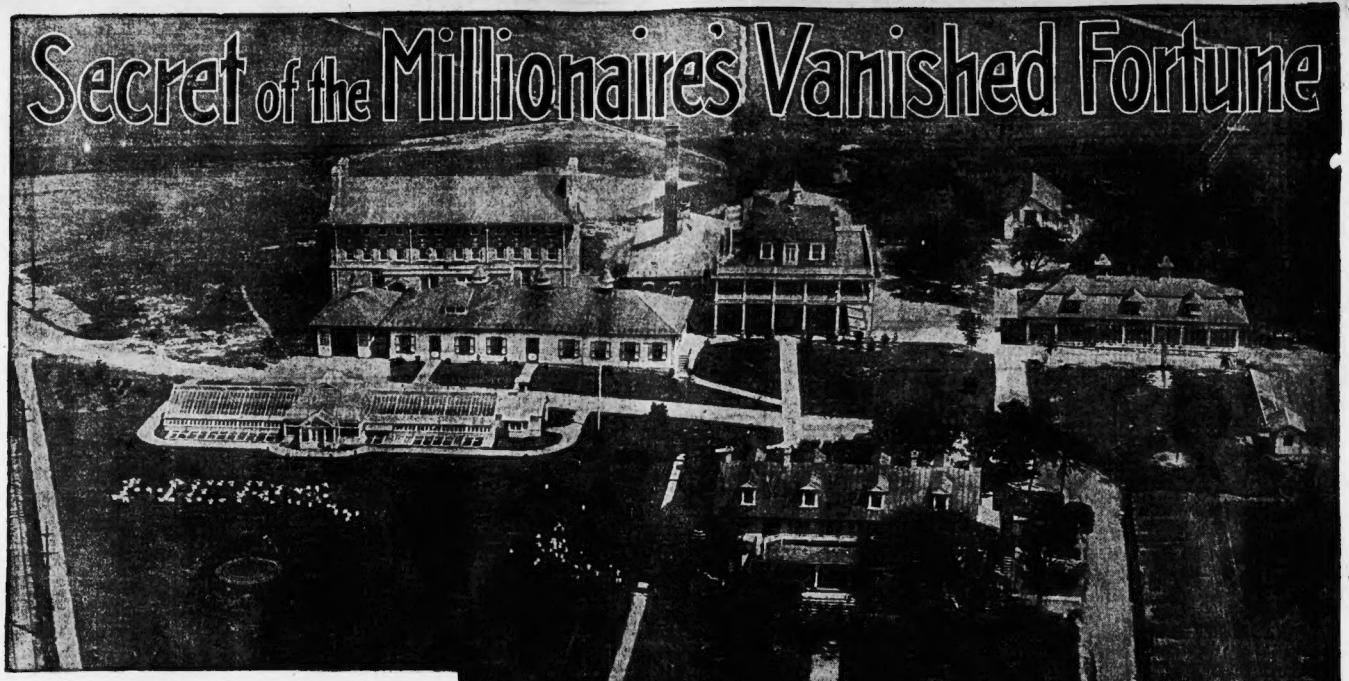
Secret of the Millionaire's Vanished Fortune



(Courtesy Aerial Age.)
Airplane View of the Hershey Industrial School, Which Owns Outright Towns, Plantations, Factories, Farms, Railroads and Other Properties Operated Exclusively for the Benefit of Orphan Boys.

What the Tax Sleuths Discovered When the Rich Mr. Hershey's Return Shrank Suddenly from a Magnate's to a Clerk's TRUST the income tax to unearth the unexpected! Lynx-eyed investigators at Washington reveal a distinctly new departure in the romance of American business—a gigantic industry owned outright, not by a group of fat financiers, but by a school for orphan boys! And, in the same motion, they solve the mystery of the "vanished" millions of a world famous captain of industry. He gave them away as unostentatiously as he might a friendly cigar!

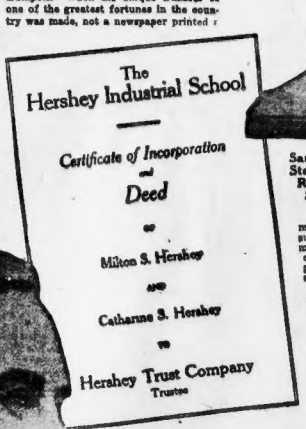
There have been many fanciful fiction stories written about rich theorists who turned over their businesses to their workers, lock, stock and barrel. There have even been several less dramatic instances, in fact, of this sort of philanthropy practised on a small scale. Henry Ford and other magnates pride themselves on letting their employes share in their profits.

But this is the only case on record where a huge commercial enterprise—so ramified that it includes among its assets an entire "made-to-order" town in Pennsylvania, vast Cuban sugar plantations, factories, farms, railroads, street car lines, hotels, banks, cafes, homes, theatres, herds of cows, droves of horses, fleets of flivvers, trains of trucks—was signed away with one stroke of the pen to the sole possession of a charity school!

Nor was the gift made to the accompaniment of beating drums and tooting trumpets. When the unique transfer of one of the greatest fortunes in the country was made, not a newspaper printed a line about it. The millionaire himself clamped on the mufflers. If the income tax checkers at Washington hadn't gotten busy, the secret might be a secret yet.

Milton S. Hershey, Who Gave Away His Gigantic Business to Poor Boys Forever Because Once He Was a Poor Boy Himself.



The Hershey Industrial School

Certificate of Incorporation and Deed

Milton S. Hershey

and

Catharine S. Hershey

to

Hershey Trust Company

Trustee

Certificate of Incorporation of the Hershey School and the Deed Transferring to It the Entire Hershey Property.

When the income tax checkers began to tabulate the return of Milton S. Hershey, they were puzzled. They knew Mr. Hershey was president of the Hershey Chocolate Company. Bradstreet's rated him several times a millionaire. In previous returns he had listed his enormous personal assets, including his majority share in his million-dollar company. But suddenly these items were missing. While, on the face of it, he was far from a pauper, he seemed by no means as wealthy as he should be. Mr. Hershey's fortune, in fact, appeared to have vanished like a cloud of dust!

The income tax checkers began to ask questions. They wanted to know what had become of the "model town" of Hershey, Pennsylvania, which the chocolate Croesus built on the site of the rocky old family farm, "High Points," where he was born, where he pitched hay as a lad, and where he started the small dairy business that became the largest chocolate manufactory in America. Had the town been blown up? Or had its owner sold it?

What about the various separate properties included in the town? The hundreds of cottage homes for employes; the thirty-five mile trolley system; the up-to-date hotel; the three-story brick department store; the bank with its three thousand depositors; the two large theatres; the music pavilion, the dancing pavilion, the convention hall, the recreation park, the zoo, the library, the athletic field, the swimming pools. Didn't Mr. Hershey owns these and weren't they taxable?

And that was only a starter, said the income tax men. There was the factory itself. It covered forty-five acres of floor space. There were the farms—eight thousand acres of choice grazing land, stocked with herd after herd of Holsteins, equipped with modern dairies and breederies, producing more than a hundred and sixty thousand quarts of milk a day.

Perhaps Mr. Hershey shouldn't be taxed for his holdings in the island of Cuba—the town he owned there, his thirty thousand acres of sugar plantation, his mills, his private railroad, his wharves and his vessels. But surely the millionaire didn't expect to pay no tax whatever on his American properties! That is, if he still owned them. Did he?

Lawyers answered the question. They trooped into Washington to battle the income tax men, and the plea they set up was this: Towns, railroads, factories, stores, farms, cows, horses and everything else were not owned by an individual, but by a school, and that school, the Hershey Industrial School, because it catered only to orphans or sons of widows and didn't charge a penny for tuition, was a charitable institution and therefore exempt from income tax.

Do you mean to tell us—scoffed the income tax men—that a school for orphan boys was rich enough to buy a million-of-dollars business? No, replied the lawyers, Mr. Hershey gave the business to the school. At this point several income tax checkers swooned.

The statement, however, was quickly proven. Mr. Hershey, once a poor boy himself, founded the school some years ago as a sort of hobby, a pet project of the kind many multi-millionaires foster. He and Mrs. Catharine S. Hershey, his wife, had no children. They decided they would be father and mother to hundreds of youngsters.

The school was built on the site of their old homestead, about a mile from the town. Around it were fertile farms. The boys specialized in agriculture, horticulture and gardening, but they were allowed to choose any other line of work if they so desired. No fees were charged. The only requirement was that the applicant should be deserving and should either be an orphan or the son of a widow. Preference was given to town boys first, to Pennsylvania boys second, and after that to any youth in the United States. While due attention was paid to the morals of the student body, Mr. Hershey laid down but one stipulation on ethical conduct. All students, he said, must be "trained to speak the truth."

As the business grew, so grew the school. Around one building sprang up others — dormitories, classrooms, playgrounds, a gymnasium, mechanical shops, laboratories, libraries. Recently, on the school grounds, was dedicated the famous statue, "Apres la Tempete" (After the Storm), by Sarah Bernhardt, who became almost as celebrated a sculptress during her last years as she was an actress. The statue shows a boy, evidently washed ashore by the waves, in the arms of a mothering rescuer. It was a symbol of what the school was doing for the youth of the land.

To this school Hershey gave away his business. He gave it wholly, without strings or reservations, he and his wife signing the deed which was presented as evidence in the Washington litigation. The deed shows that the school is conducted by a board of trustees of which Hershey is a member. He gave all his stock to the school and is working for his own company at a nominal salary. This, however, is his only connection with the school or with the business. His will gives his last possession, his home, to the school also. As the attorneys put it:

"The school—and the school alone—owns this business as long as the business shall last. The board of trustees runs the business as it runs the school. But the only beneficiaries of either are the boys. The profits of the company are banked in the school's name. The school, through the trustees, and the boys, through the school, are just as powerful and individual in the ownership of this industry as Mr. Ford is in the direction of his institution."

After lengthy arguments on both sides, the courts agreed that the exemptions claimed were not allowable. The school pays income tax. But the case holds a unique place in the archives at Washington, where there are records of schools and universities liberally endowed, but never one of an institution that was presented a thriving industry on a silver platter, and then told to run it and pocket all the profits for the education of farmer boys!

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

AMERICA has been changing her Ambassadors so often that in the future all of our diplomats will carry commutation books.

ONE said he couldn't take the job because he didn't have a stop watch.

HE moved the embassy down to the steamship dock so he'd be nearer home.

WHEN an Ambassador goes to Europe these days he don't know whether to unpack his trunk or not.

ONE diplomat said his appointment lasted for such a short time that it didn't pay him to get off the boat.

HE told his folks that he felt more like a traveling salesman.

WHEN the steamship companies cut down the running time between the United States and Europe, an Ambassador can be sent over and called back in the same week.

HE'LL be able to arrive in England almost as soon as the cable which is waiting there for him telling him to return.

BUT Uncle Sam has the right idea. He knows how to keep his diplomats from getting homesick.

BY reading a steamship timetable, an Ambassador or Minister who is sent to a foreign post knows exactly when he will be back.

IT'S getting so that when a man receives his appointment in Washington, he walks right across the street to the War Department and resigns.

IT won't be long before America will have three Ambassadors for every country. One going, one there and another one on the way back.

INCREASE YOUR BANK ACCOUNT INSTEAD OF YOUR EXPENDITURES

Just why do you allow your expenditures to increase with your increase of salary or wages?

With a larger income each year you ought to be able to show a larger bank account.

If you are an ostrich you will stick your head into the sand of "what I would like to do with a little extra money," and spend it as fast as you can lay hands on it; or if you can get things charged you will have it spent long before, on the strength of your increase.

You will never get ahead by this plan. You are not making friends by your methods.

You are trying to cultivate certain persons, perhaps, but those friends will fade fast enough if it comes to a showdown and you cannot pay your bills.

My older boy looked at him impatiently and replied, "Don't you know one is for cream and the other for milk?"
